Skeptical broadcaster reports on I.C.L. Process

"I found a permanent way to REGAIN A FULL HEAD OF HAIR!"

by Steve Ross

Philadelphia Radio/TV Personality

I was auditioning in a TV studio when I caught a glimpse of myself on the monitor. There on the screen was a balding area, more obvious than I had ever noticed before.

I went home and pulled out a videotape of an HBO special I'd hosted a few years before and it confirmed my worst suspicions. The cumulative effects of several years of gradual, almost imperceptible hair loss had added up more than I realized.

I Was Damned Scared!

I knew I had to do something. But what? How? Where?

Every Tom, Dick and Harry has a hair remedy—or so it seems. Their ads are all over—radio, TV, newspapers, magazines. How do you separate the real from the phony? It set my head spinning.

To make matters worse, I happen to be the world's biggest skeptic.

I Refused To Wear A Wig!

Remember, in my business, I'm in the public eye a lot. I didn't want people laughing or smirking because they could tell I was wearing a "rug." Any hair replacement would have to look natural or I couldn't do it.

It would also have to be done quickly. No prolonged surgery dragging out over many visits and many months like hair transplants. (Incidentally, I have a friend who tried a transplant, but the plugs didn't take. Instead of a full head of hair, he wound up with a head full of "holes.")

International Cosmetic Labs Had The Answer!

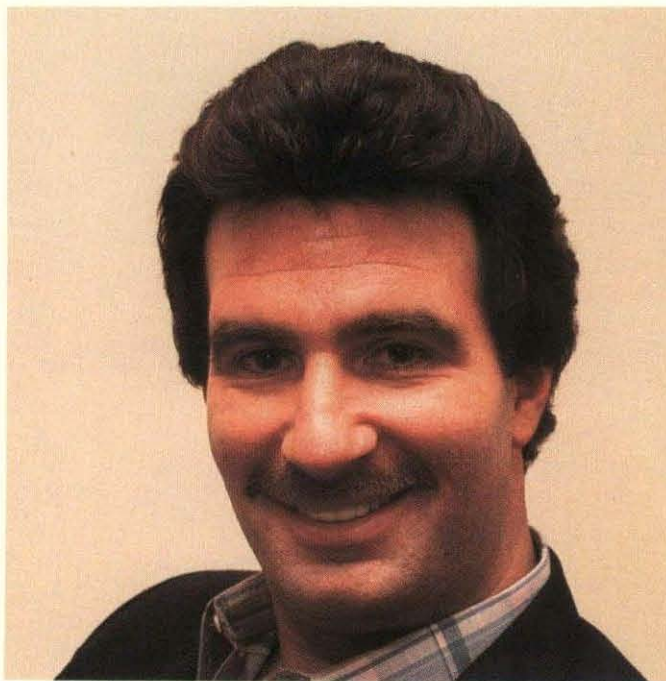

After weeks of searching and upon a final recommendation from a doctor friend of mine, I paid a visit to International Cosmetic Labs.

The first thing that impressed me was the fact that there was no hype, no high pressure selling. Instead, they more or less put my mind at ease by answering all of my questions completely.

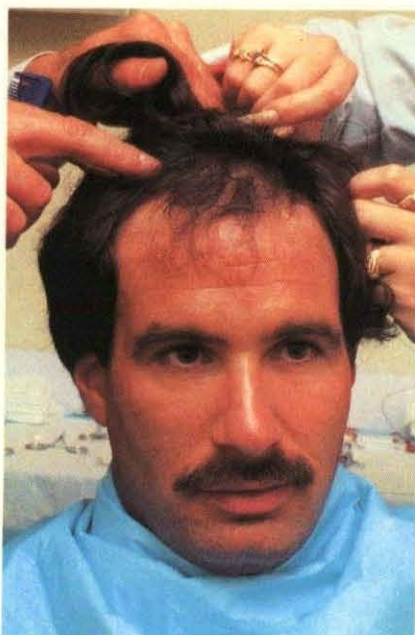

The I.C.L. Process, in case you're wondering, is designed for people who want a permanent head of hair and also like me, still have some hair of their own. It gives you a permanent, maintenance-free full head of hair. A combination of human and synthetic hair, "Cosmetic Hair Filaments" perfectly matched to your own hair color and texture are blended with your own hair, so that it's absolutely undetectable and becomes so much a part of you that you can do anything with it that you would do with your own natural hair. It is not a solid based hairpiece.

I Really Felt Good!

One thing about the I.C.L. Process, that for me was a "turn on," was the fact that for the most skeptical, which I initially was, the process is totally reversible. So at 12:30 on Friday afternoon, just 48 hours before I was to be married, I went to International. Three hours after the medical application I walked out with a full head of hair, confident enough to face my bride and a church full of guests.

I Showered, Swam, Dove!

On our honeymoon in Key West, I was able to engage in all activities. I swam, dove off the board, everything!

My hair looks so natural no one would ever in a million years guess that all this hair isn't mine. Naturally, when I tell people about the I.C.L. Process, they insist on feeling my hair. And they agree: it not only looks like my own hair, it feels like it, too.

The next question I'm usually asked is whether there is any pain during the process. I admit I was a bit apprehensive right up to the moment the doctor started the procedure. But I never felt any pain during the procedure or afterward (although I understand some people may have some slight discomfort for a day or two).

I Recommend It Highly!

If, like me, you're concerned with always looking your best, you really should visit, write, or telephone I.C.L. for more information about their exclusive process. They do provide a FREE BROCHURE. Just write 209 Office Building, Rt. 130, Cinnaminson, NJ 08077, or call toll free in the U.S. 1-800-262-8844, in Canada 1-800-523-8844 or from New Jersey or out of the country 1-609-829-4300

CURVEY IS TOPS

I just purchased the April '89 issue of HUSTLER because of the covergirl, Topsy Curvey. Being turned on by large-busted women is only natural. I would also like to contact her agent so that I may secure some 8x10 publicity photos and hopefully schedule an appearance by her.

—M. D. L.
Baltimore, Maryland

BEDTIME BEAVER FEVER

The April '89 Beaver Hunt has provided me and my joint with several good nights of contented sleep. Both Debbie and Morgana can call my face home anytime. Please tell Patricia to send in more photos of herself. I wish more sisters would send in Beaver Hunt photos.

MORE AIDS MATH PROBLEMS

The April '89 HUSTLER AIDSWatch, "The Numbers Game," is on the money, but I'd like to add a few remarks. We can't control humans the way we can white mice, so it's hard to be sure what the chances are that men will contract AIDS through "normal" sexual contact. Larry Wichman's report mentions 26 San Francisco AIDS cases from heterosexual transmission. Because these rates differ between men and women, it would help to know the number of cases for each gender. Secondly, since AIDS tests have produced high numbers of false positives, what effect does that have on the 15 AIDS cases out of 10,000 tests reported by U.S. Army data? Finally, reports of AIDS transmissions need to be judged against the possibility of insect carriers, as suggested by the cases in impoverished areas (Africa, Florida) of five- to ten-year-old children who are too young for sexual transmission and too old to have survived infection at birth.

LIKES CARS WITH CURVES

Thanks for your March '89 issue. I'm only 20, and this is the first time I've ever purchased your magazine. I really enjoy the hot women and the Negro cartoons. I've seen such funny shit from your magazine. I sure loved that old Chevy Impala in the set "Honeymoon Hootch Highway." I'm a real car buff, and I hope you shoot some more photos of older cars—with some sweet bitch riding the stick shift. A hot bitch and a hot car go together just fine.

—M. D.
Cleveland, Ohio

STROKED BY HARD FACTS

HUSTLER isn't just for strokers anymore. March's "IRS Goon Squads" was alternative journalism at its best, serving the cause of freedom and our pocketbooks. Boldly stating in Sex News Bits that the clergy, "old men in dresses," have no business running our lives for us sets Larry Flynt apart from the polite cowardice of "nice" men's magazines. State and church, now merging under the Reagan/Bush regime, want the outspoken HUSTLER shut down, and fast! A civil war is on for our freedoms and, for some of us, our very lives (as Mr. Flynt found out the hard way). The time for "nice" talk is over, Mr. Hefner.

—A Kentucky Wildcat
Lexington, Kentucky

TAX ATTACKS

First, I would like to applaud Larry Flynt for the courage displayed by publishing "IRS Goon Squads: The Power to Destroy" in the March issue of HUSTLER. I am the editor of a small tax-protest newsletter, The Freeman Letter, 8141 E. 31st St., Suite F, Tulsa, OK 74145. Your exposé was very readable and extremely accurate. Only through efforts like this can the IRS and their corrupt system be exposed and changed. Bravo!

—D. M.
Tulsa, Oklahoma

Topsy Curvey: Fuckin' Huge

In your March edition we were very surprised to learn of the article "IRS Goon Squads," in which Bob and Peggy Christensen and the Golden Mean Team were mentioned, as well as other patriot individuals and organizations from across the nation. You may be aware that most patriots are devoted Christian people and would not see eye to eye with your publication. However, after many years of trying to reach the public with the truth about abusive IRS tactics through newspapers, radio and television, yours is the only publication with the fortitude to print what has only been available in underground newspapers. The widespread abuse is most evident from our vantage point, but the general public has no idea of the atrocities committed in the name of government. This is not an accident. We speak for many freedom-loving people when we say thank you for daring to publish the truth. Please give HUSTLER readers the following information: Our phone number is (406) 728-9340 or (406) 728-9373. Our address is the Golden Mean Team, P.O. Box 7733, Missoula, MT 59807. —Bob Christensen

Missoula, Montana

CLASS PLUS ASS

I must admit, you folks are developing some real class. Jay Freemont's "IRS Goon Squads" was outrageous, and the Sex Play article "Balling by Body Types" by Robert McGarvey confirmed theories I've had for years. What amazes me most, though, is that after being a HUSTLER aficionado for years, my first letter to you people is about the reading material. Well, just to show I'm human, I must admit, your spread on "Reza: Between Iraq and a Hard Place" made my dick so hard, a cat couldn't scratch it. —J. Q.

Purchase, New York

SUNNY CHEER

The centerfold in the March '89 issue, "Sunny: The Great White Hope," has the greatest body that I have ever seen in HUSTLER. I sure would like to throw a beach blanket party with her. Anytime she wants me to chew on her Canadian bacon, I am ready and waiting. —E. L.

Redding, California

Sunny is one fine woman. She is the kind of woman who likes to fuck and suck. You can see it in her eyes; the eyes never lie.

—T. J. C.

La Jolla, California

VET CONNECTS

I am a Vietnam veteran who served from July 1970 until July of '71. I read Michael DiGregorio's AIDSWatch article in the February '89 issue of HUSTLER: "The Agent Orange Connection." I am presently incarcerated at Polk Correctional Institute, but since my return to America in 1971, I have experienced quite a few skin and hair disfigurements. This condition was determined to be a form of skin cancer. After reading the AIDSWatch article, I felt a strong need to write. My hopes are that you might be able to provide me with information that is related to the Agent Orange diseases, and where I can seek help.

—J. C. S. Sr.

Polk City, Florida

There are a number of agencies and foundations set up for Vietnam veterans who seek redress due to their Agent Orange exposure-caused ailments. Among them: The Oklahoma Agent Orange Foundation, P.O. Box 849, Lexington, Oklahoma 73051; The Independent Agent Orange Network, 269 Pershing Street, Wynantskill, New York 12198.

OFF-COLOR REQUEST

I am a black American male who has been reading HUSTLER since 1977. Your magazine boasts that it is "America's Magazine," yet it rarely features black, Hispanic or Oriental women. I love all women, and America is made up of many beautiful women of all races. So live up to your name and feature them. —A. B.

Titusville, Florida

You—and many other readers with similar racy requests—will be delighted with the July '89 15th Anniversary Collector's Issue, on sale May 23.

FIT TO BE THAI'D

Congratulations! Your article "Bangkok: Paradise of Corruption" in the December '88 issue of HUSTLER has Thailand in a tizzy. The article hit the front page of a local newspaper with a clamor you wouldn't believe. However, be forewarned. The Thai government may lodge a protest against the magazine, and a contract has been put out on your correspondent, Bill Baker. In summary, the Bangkok Post reported that "Bill Baker has been declared persona non grata for allegedly defaming the country... [with] serious allegations about sex trade and corruption in Thailand." The hue and cry is typical of Thais when they are caught with their hands in the cookie jar.

—F. W. B.

Bangkok, Thailand

BARRED BEHIND BARS

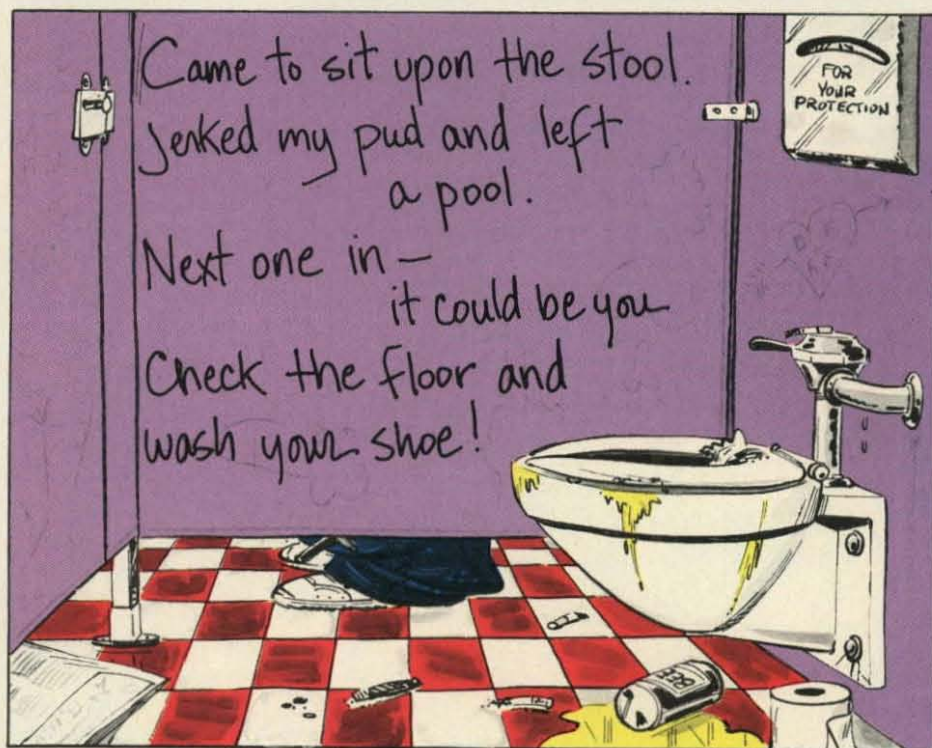

I know that HUSTLER probably received an influx of letters concerning the recent article on the California Department of Corrections ("Prison Guard Tells All," February '89). You will not, however, be getting much correspondence from Avenal State Prison in the San Joaquin Valley. Your article and, in turn, the whole February issue has been banned from this institution as it might induce a riot or let us prisoners know what is really happening.

ASSHOLE OF THE MONTH

Yea, verily, James C. Dobson taketh succor from a lying rapist and murderer, and becometh Asshole of the Month. (Larry 6:89)

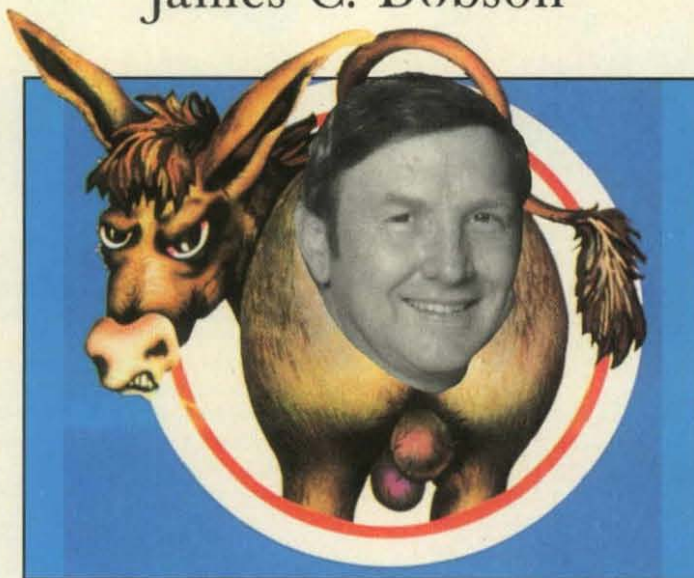

This Bible-quoting psychobabble expert and radio sky pilot recently raised a recognizably fecal stink with his self-serving videotaped "confession" by Ted Bundy that tried to establish pornography as the scapegoat for a deranged criminal's behavior.

The same antiporn zealot whose books preach the development of childhood morals through emphasis on Biblical restrictions cleverly overlooked Bundy's claim of being raised in a religious household—which according to Dobson's standards would rebuff foul influences like sex pictures—to embellish the psychopath's death-bed copout to being a victim of porn.

It should be no surprise that a vocal member of the kangaroo commission on pornography, set up by the ethical embarrassment to U.S. justice named Edwin Meese, would also align himself with a known gutter-leaving like Bundy.

In one of his widely read books that demean the science of psychology by bending it to simple-minded Christian ends, Dobson claims that the human conscience is "imperfect," is created by God, is the battleground of the Holy Spirit and Satan, and so on. Obviously a man whose idea of conscience changes from page to page has no conscious qualms about using scumbags to further his cause. The failure to see the contradiction in his own methods is typical of the modern breed of repressor whose lack of reason is superceded only by his ability to cater to the weak minds who buy tickets to heaven by contributing to such outfits as Dobson's Focus on the Family at its $12.2 million facility in Southern California.

Just as he picks and chooses—usually out of context—from scientific studies or a mass-murderer's comments, Dobson maintains the tired notion that the breakdown of the family and abandonment of moral values is at the core of society's problems. This off-target assessment conveniently ignores that inflation has forced both parents into the workplace, that divorce laws free couples from hating each other in close proximity for life, that we are led by corrupted and unethical politicians, and that the Christian solution denies citizens their natural human qualities of free will and enlightened choice.

Reacting in the typically insecure fashion of people whose theories have no strength in and of themselves—depending on fear and intimidation to be maintained—Dobson was among the lowing herd that tried to stop distribution of The Last Temptation of Christ, and he will continue to interfere with adult citizen's rights and responsibilities to make their own choices.

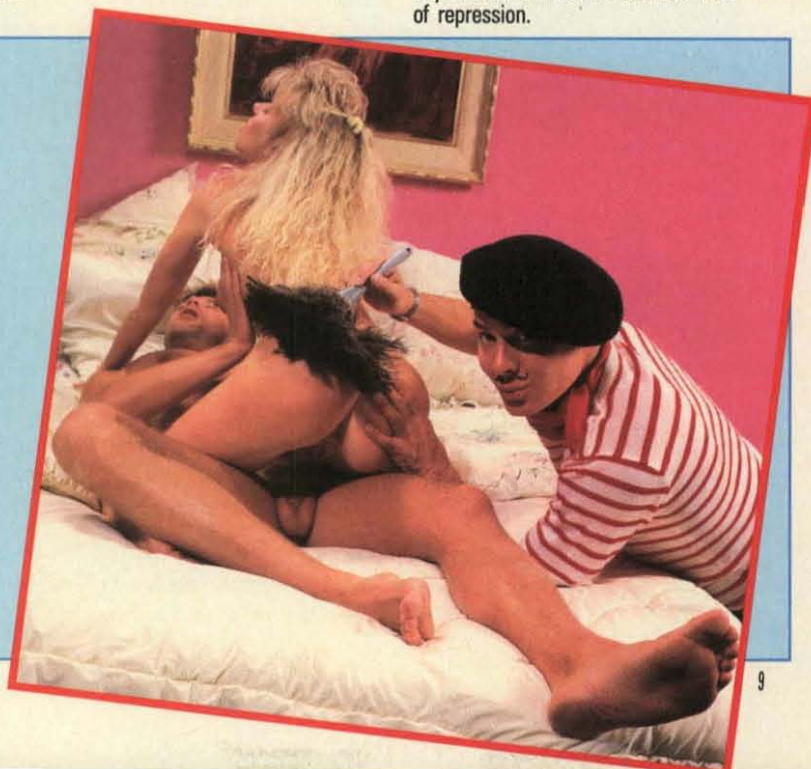

As more and more airwave ministries tumble down the toilet, we can only hope this Asshole's radio rectology gets flushed by his blatant use of any available whore to turn the trick of repression.

FRENCH TICKLER

Not everyone can afford the latest sexual novelty from our friends in the land of escargot, but for those who can, it's worth it. That's right, there's nothing quite like a hyper-active little frog who will stimulate you and your lover to unprecedented levels of ecstasy. And during those slow moments in between, he'll be happy to entertain you with spontaneous mime, or Jerry Lewis impressions. Oooo la la!

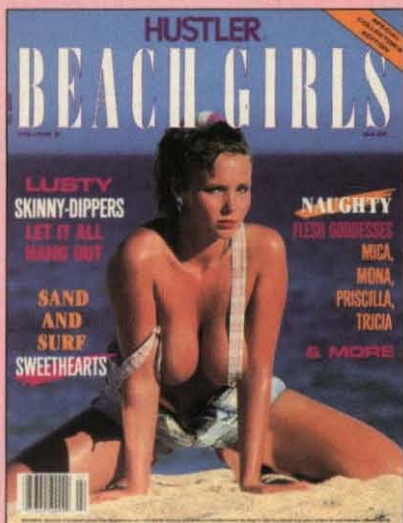

SKID ROW

Talk about smelly bums! Make sure you bring a clothespin when you take a walk down the boulevard of broken dreams and stained seams—cause it looks as though the local soup kitchen ran out of gravy and started substituting melted Ex-Lax again....

BEACH GIRLS ENCORE!!

If you love to watch sexy ladies at the beach (especially when they're not wearing swimsuits), you'll definitely get off on HUSTLER

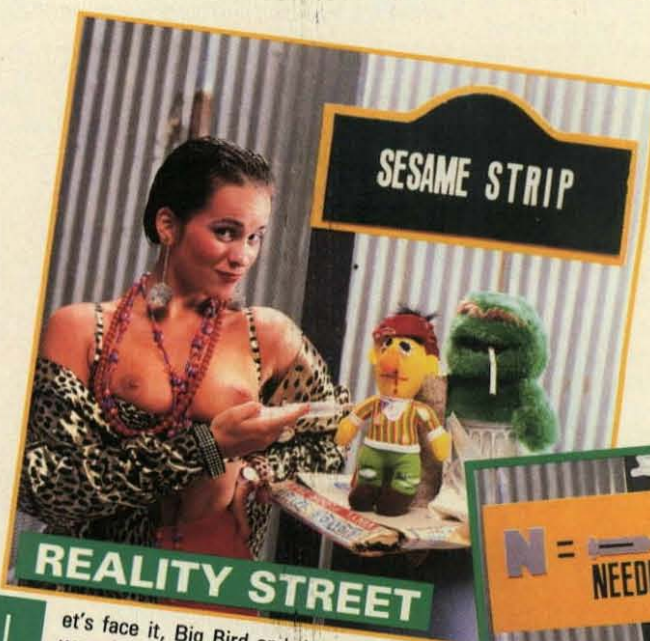

BEACH GIRLS Volume 2. This special collector's edition, on sale at your favorite newsstand, is filled with the hottest surf-and-sand sweethearts you've ever laid eyes on. And don't despair if you can't find BEACH GIRLS. You can order Volume 2 (and Volume 1 if you missed it) from Flynt Subscription Company, P.O. Box 67068, Los Angeles, CA 90067, at $4.95 a copy. (Please add $1 postage and handling per issue ordered.)

Porn From the Past

If you have your own smut to contribute, don't wait another minute. Send those vintage photos off to Porn From the Past, HUSTLER Magazine, 9171 Wilshire Blvd., Suite 300, Beverly Hills, CA 90210. If we print it in HUSTLER, you'll make a fast $150. Please enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope if you want your stuff back.

Let's face it, Big Bird and the Cookie Monster were fine for their time, but kids growing up today need a more down-to-earth education in the facts of life. On the new Children's Television Sweatshop program Sesame Strip, they don't waste time teaching useless crap about counting to ten and the letter E. Today, Tina the Tart, Ernie the Junkie and Oscar the Homeless Green Wino are giving lessons on scoring smack, shoplifting and treating knife wounds. Why shouldn't learning be fun?

MY SOLE IS CALLING TO YOU...

Foot-fetish, phone-sex addicts, have we got the product you need. This one's for real—some genius who watched too many episodes of Get Smart while growing up has designed a genuine shoe phone. Available in a variety of styles, from black oxfords to canvas high-top sneakers, they go for $60 to $65 and are distributed by Impulse Products (281 Summer Street, Boston, MA 02210). No, the naked girl isn't included, but when somebody comes up with the bimbo phone, you can be sure you'll read about it here first.

THE QUIM REAPER

There's no combination quite like sex and death, so with the age of AIDS upon us, HUSTLER presents this timely visual reminder... Better think twice before you fuck anything but your fist.

TONGUE LASHING

So what if the guy's got lousy muscle tone, BO and the IQ of a fence post? He still knows what it takes to please the ladies. Just spend a few hours a day for the next several years trying to catch flies like a frog, and you might wind up with an equally awesome oral appendage.

HEAVY-METAL DETECTOR

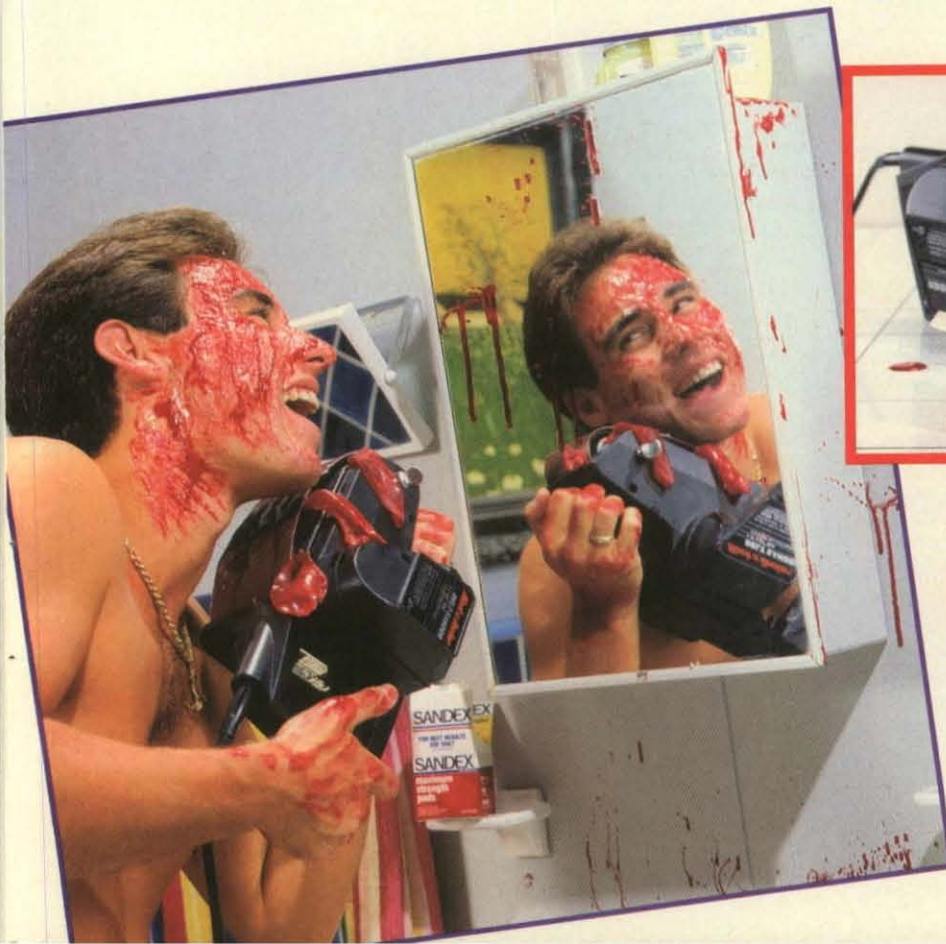

Not all establishments care for the leather-and-chains look that so many young metalheads now enjoy. That's where these babies come in handy—the heavy-metal detector can spot a spiked bracelet or steel stud a mile away, even if it's swathed in gabardine or polyester. No longer can trendoids move anonymously among us—at last we have the technology to keep them out of our dinner theaters and piano bars.

Parody: Not to be taken seriously.

Cute little fourth-grader Sally Jones might have become just another gruesome statistic the day she was attacked by a scary, knife-wielding Negro. But Sally was prepared. The day before, her father had given her a brand-new Chinese-manufactured AK-47, the same military assault rifle used by freedom-loving guerrilla insurgents throughout the world. Remember, a ban on any kind of gun is a threat to your children's right to protect themselves. Don't let it happen here.

GUNS DON'T KILL PEOPLE... UNLESS THEY'RE ARMED.

SAND BAD SKIN AWAY!

Say goodbye to embarrassing blemishes—as well as most of your face—with Sandex maximum-abrasion acne pads. Sure, the aftereffects are a bit unsightly at first, but do you really want to admit to the other kids that you spent Saturday night eating chocolate and jerking off, when you can claim to have survived a fiery car crash instead? The choice is yours.

State Governments Struggling With AIDS

The AIDS epidemic is hitting the courts—with mixed results. In Florida judges have dropped two attempted manslaughter charges against a prostitute who was accused of fucking two men after she was diagnosed as having the deadly virus. The Fifth District Court of Appeal unanimously upheld Orange Circuit Judge Michael Cycmanick's ruling that Elizabeth Sherouse should not be prosecuted for two incidents in 1987 that involved the Orlando hooker, who knew she had the HIV infection, bugging her clients. Both men were using condoms. The courts agreed with Sherouse's attorney that the state couldn't prove the whore had intent to harm or that her actions could kill the johns. Assistant state attorney Richard Bogle says that other AIDS-spreading cases would have to be evaluated individually but that the state wouldn't appeal the ruling on Sherouse, though she still faces other charges stemming from prostitution.

In another potential legal morass, the Texas Association of Realtors has asked the Texas legislature to relieve them of the responsibility of informing house buyers of the AIDS history of the residence. Under current law, real-estate agents are liable if a customer discovers a previous occupant has AIDS and files suit for emotional duress. According to association attorney Jim Pecora, the Realtors must spill the beans about previous owners, whether it's AIDS or suicide or any other happenings out of the ordinary. Since nobody has proven that a house can transfer the virus, the sellers hope the state lawmakers will abolish the restriction.

Russkis Say "Da" to Sex Talk

Thanks to glasnost, the Soviet Union is finally beginning to publicly discuss sex. It's a good thing too, according to Soviet sexologist Dr. Igor S. Kon, who says that Russian women average nine abortions each. Most of the blame goes to a lack of condoms, a depletion so severe that it forces some industrious Commies to use balloons instead. (They may stand in line for goods, but pussy is no problem.) Dr. Kon, whose book Introduction to Sexology took ten years to get published, says AIDS is another reason why authorities have loosened up and prompted a dialogue on sex practices.

Kraut Spays Lolita Daughter

Fearing that his phenomenally developed eight-year-old daughter would get knocked up, a German man sterilized the kid to prevent any unexpected deliveries. But now the early bloomer is 21 years old, and Daddy's the target of a major lawsuit she's filed against him for his paternal pussy plundering. The security-conscious father claims the sterilization was done on the advice of physicians. "At age eight, she had the figure of a teenager," says the man who's a former member of Parliament in Dortmund. He blames premature puberty for all the trouble.

Mohammed's Babes Get Prostituted in Book

It was big news when the controversial novel The Satanic Verses by Salman Rushdie caused riots in Pakistan and other parts of the Islamic world, but many people still aren't aware of the sexually tinted details found in the so-called blasphemous book. Rushdie, who was marked for death by the Ayatollah Khomeini after the Iranian theocrat put a $2.5-million price tag on his head, wrote an allegory in which a fictional prophet named Mahoud (a thinly veiled version of Mohammed, father of Islam) has 12 wives recruited from a whorehouse called The Curtain. Writes Rushdie, "...the whores of The Curtain had each assumed the identity of one of Mahoud's wives." This part is profoundly offensive to Moslems, as Mohammed actually had 12 wives, and some of the sluts in the book adopt the names of the prophet's real spouses. Moslem historians also accuse Rushdie of calling Abraham, the patriarch of Islam and Judaism, a "bastard" and labeling African Bilal, a cherished figure in black American Moslem beliefs, an "enormous black monster." Or was it that he had an enormous black monster in his pants? Maybe something got lost in the translation.

THE BUSINESS OF AIDS

Shortly after signing on as a consultant to Daxor Corporation, Dr. Joseph Feldschuh acquired the modest frozen-sperm company. Over the years Daxor Corporation provided the sperm for nearly 13,000 successful pregnancies and expanded its services to include cryopreservation, or tissue freezing.

But by 1984 his sperm-storage business had peaked at $1.8 million, small by industry standards, and began to fall off, so Feldschuh took the next logical step—freezing blood. By 1985, when the winds of national fear heralded the AIDS pandemic, Feldschuh opened his first blood bank for the extraction, freezing and storage of autologous (or owner's own) blood. As a cardiologist, internist and endocrinologist, Feldschuh apparently divined the rapidly increasing public demand for such facilities.

To date only two such blood banks exist, with one scheduled in the near future for the West Coast. Feldschuh's plans are long-range; he intends to open a nationwide network. Explains the medical entrepreneur, "It wasn't until the AIDS crisis that people began to look for what was always there—the knowledge and the statistics that the blood supply is very unsafe."

Assuming that one isn't infected, "the only blood that is 100% risk-free for you to get is your own," offers Dr. Louis Aledort of the Mount Sinai Medical Center.

While the Daxor program is financially prohibitive for the average-income individual ($85 per unit of blood for collection and testing, $150 for storage charges per unit per year, $65 for thawing each unit), that didn't much matter on stock exchanges. Almost immediately investors saw profit potential, so much so that Daxor stock jumped from $6 to $35 per share, finally leveling off at $13.50, an increase of more than 100% over the initial rate.

Welcome to the world of AIDS profitability, a world where buying and trading stock has little to do with the human element. On the market, the word AIDS conjures up piles of greenbacks. Says Bryan Straw, a broker based in Atlanta for Merrill Lynch, "Fear of the disease has created a lot of investor interest." And currently it's a bull market for anyone even peripherally involved in biotechnology, blood banking and condom manufacturing.

Burroughs Wellcome (BW) is a perfect example of the scene. BW, as marketer of AZT, the only treatment for AIDS approved in the U.S., saw its stock soar 360% per share in the three-month period after the company went public. AZT generates a profit margin of up to 42% (an AIDS patient's annual costs for the drug run between $8,000 and $10,000). Says New York's Wertheim & Company analyst Jonathan Gelles, "We expect [AZT] to sell at a rate that will make it the company's largest contributor to revenue and earnings, and that the profit margin for the drug will be about three times the company's 13% average." For the investor this means that BW's less-than-$10-per-share price is a bargain.

Of course, there are riskier routes to take if you've got money to dump. In 1986 ICN Pharmaceuticals saw its stock soar 230%, to $34 per share, when it announced a new experimental drug, Virazole. That situation changed dramatically after the FDA requested additional data before allowing Virazole to undergo wide testing. Still, the stock leveled out at around $20 a share.

For those investors interested in super-high-end corporations in search of a vaccine, no company can compare with Swiss-based Hoffman-La Roche. A full voting share commands nearly $130,000, while a "baby share," which is a 1/10 share of nonvoting stock, still goes for a daunting $9,000-plus.

What investors are hoping to bank on is the success of Hoffman's drug, ddC, which is said to produce fewer side effects than AZT. Currently, ddC is undergoing human testing at the National Institutes of Health, and should the FDA give the go-ahead for full-scale marketing of ddC, no one knows for sure how much a share of Hoffman will be worth.

If the biotechnology industry is just too dicey for more conservative investors, there's always the sure-bet route, like Abbott Laboratories. A blue-chip company, Abbott is believed to control more than half the U.S. market for AIDS-related blood-testing procedures. Recently the company sold between $30 million and $40 million worth of tests, making its $60 price per share quite a bargain at a time when the market in this arena continues to burgeon. Currently six companies divvy up the world market for a test that detects contaminated blood supplies, earning more than $120 million for their efforts. Perhaps that explains why Ceta Corporation and Eastman Kodak Company have recently launched their own projects to further develop and refine diagnostic tests. As the fear of the virus brings increasing numbers of the population into test centers, testing may become an incredible boom business, especially as newer firms introduce ever-more-sophisticated testing procedures, and it's certain investors won't be far behind.

Fortune magazine points out that shrewd Wall Streeters can make money in what it calls this "unusual market niche." The preference currently is for corporations that aren't necessarily involved in antiviral research projects, such as Carter Wallace and Schmid Laboratories, two of the largest condom manufacturers in the world. Even here, however, investing can be risky. At one point, Carter Wallace dropped 26% from a high of $151 per share, indicating that fast bucks aren't available in this segment of the industry. To analysts, condom makers are long-term, steady investment performers.

One area that has been significantly affected is the life/health-insurance industry. With AIDS victims, the actuarial table goes out the window. Ann Scitovsky, chief health economist for the Palo Alto Medical Foundation, predicts that medical costs for treating AIDS will soar to $8.5 billion by 1991, an eightfold increase over present costs, and naturally, health insurers do not wish to foot the high bill. Many, in fact, already refuse to insure those exposed to the AIDS virus, and insurance stocks are currently not the route recommended by analysts. Says James McKeever, publisher of the McKeever Strategy Letter, "If people start dying earlier than they are supposed to, en masse, then these companies could be in trouble, as well as hospitalization companies."

McKeever does offer a ray of hope for those who wish to play with their money at this end of the market, however. He points out that hospital management combines, like Humana, "across the next three or four years could do very well." Already there is a shining example of the potential in this field. Not too long ago American Medical International (AMI) took over a financially depressed hospital in the Houston, Texas, area, converting the 150-bed facility into a thriving AIDS research and treatment center. The project has been so successful, in fact, that it has paid for itself in a short time.

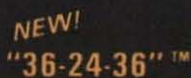

Then there's the hospital-products industry. Before AIDS, stocks in corporations such as American Hospital Supply, a provider of medical equipment large and small, had hit an all-time low. With AIDS, the game changed drastically. Suddenly the disposable-product industry began booming, and today everything from disposable syringes to plastic trays are in short supply. One respected industry trade newsletter, the California-based Biomedical Business International, predicts that disposable-product revenues will soar to the $1-billion mark within two years. And there's little doubt that industry stock prices will escalate accordingly.

What it all comes down to is that throughout the ages there have been those who profit from tragedy. However, it can also be said that investors help corporations fuel their research efforts. Whatever the case, there are acres of diamonds for those who have spare long green to invest. It is, after all, the American way. As one President so aptly put it long ago, "The business of America is business," and AIDS investment is indeed an "unusual market niche."

EROTIC ENTERTAINMENT

Mad Love is an orgy by and for the fucking insane.

Shot on Video.

Three-Quarters Erect. Directed by John Leslie; starring Kendal Marx, Aja, Britt Morgan, Jon Martin, Brandi Wine, F. M. Bradley, Renee Morgan, Damien Cashmere, John Dough, Tony Montana, Rick Lee and James Dalton. Videocassette by VCA.

The haunted house possessed by hump-happy hobgoblins has been a sexvid staple for so long that there is no accurate count of how many times this hackneyed premise has been boned to death. In the face of these past disasters, credit goes to director John Leslie for fashioning a gonadal ghost story that is pleasantly quirky and gripping, and even includes some arousing sex segments. Unfortunately for those to whom prurience is of highest priority, Leslie has used some of the most intriguing humping in Mad Love as a sort of atmospheric background; so such delightful tidbits as Aja sinking down upon Renee Morgan's strapped-on dong are only fleetingly explored. However, full-scale erotic expeditions include Damien Cashmere and John Dough doing a dual-dick dinner-table trip on Aja, and Kendal Marx kneeling and reeling as four cocks surround her, twitching and spitting. A few more scenes of crazed lust taken to extremes, and Mad Love could have been a classic.

—Christian Shapiro

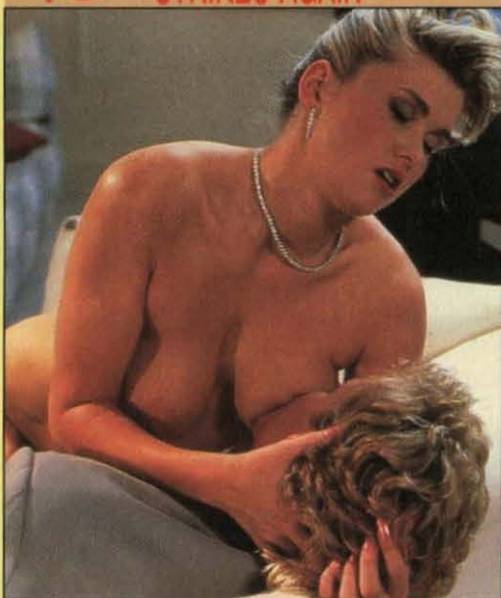

With more than a thousand hard-core movies being released each year for the home audience, viewers, increasingly confronted by seductive advertising and slick packaging, are often at a loss when it comes to selecting an X-rated tape worth watching. HUSTLER is committed to serious, no-bullshit criticism designed to accurately inform readers of XXX-cinema offerings, and to spur the adult-entertainment industry to better productions. Despite their drastic decline, there will always be adult theaters, and we'd never leave a film buff in the lurch: If a review says a production was shot on film, it's probably playing on a big screen somewhere—all you have to do is find it.

Testosterone-driven terpsichoreans pause to pork in Salsa Break.

SALSA BREAK Shot on Video.

Three-Quarters Erect. Directed by John Stagliano; starring Niki Pink, Brandi Wine, Bionca, Cheri Hill, Christi Lane, Tawny Downs, Don Fernando, Ray Victory, Giovanni Menendez and Jack Baker. Videocassette by Evil Angel Video.

In Salsa Break, maverick muff-shot director John Stagliano continues the spuzz-dripping explorations of seamy undersides and creamy backsides that he began in his scum epics Godmother Parts I and II. Break shares several elements destined to become Stagliano staples: pimps tooling their whores, hookers plying their holes, dirty cops on the make and on the take. The fucks are slow to come, but a complete plot, replete with motivations and subplots, is revealed in the meantime, as are prurient points of Salsa's hot and saucy sluts. None of the broads of Break are destined for the big-time slime, but each is a ginch willing to carry her load—on face, tits and ass. Bionca takes the first strike, Ray Victory's thumb up her ass while his dark driver piles her gash. Giovanni Menendez as a slick dope dealer pries a pair of bimbo twists onto his prick; Jack Baker seemingly spurts on Brandi Wine; Don Fernando dicks and licks a pair of pixie chicks; Victory rams and reams a demented-dame duo. The tired conventions of porn deserve a Salsa Break.

—Hakim Whithers

Recent rights repression for adult entertainment buffs probably make sexvid viewers feel anything but special. Well, you are important to the good folks at Pure Class Productions, makers of the HUSTLER Hard video series, which releases its second sizzling feature this month.

Voodoo Lust: the possession not only marks the XXX-return of Rachel Ryan, but for HUSTLER readers who order the tape (or a combination of Volumes 1 and 2 in the series), Voodoo Lust carries a bonus.

Due to the overwhelming response to Volume 1, Dreams in the Forbidden Zone, by HUSTLER's horny minions, Pure Class wants to reward the faithful by including a 30-minute Erica Boyer XXX-video with each check or money-order sale through the ad on page 118 of this issue.

Pure Class's head honcho, Peter Davy, said that the tremendous support of the series by HUSTLER readers deserves some special recognition. What could be more special than getting a bonus boner for your bucks?

BLACK WIDOW Shot on Video.

Half Erect. Directed by Paul Thomas; starring Ariel Knight, Jacqueline Lorian, Nikki Randall, Jamie Gillis, Aja, Tom Byron, Rick Savage and Jose Duval. Videocassette by Western Visuals.

Paul Thomas can coax decent enough performances from his actors, and as a writer, his dialogue is not half bad. Now, with that small praise out of the way, let it be said this cinematic offering is a complete and total ripoff of its mainstream progenitor, with only sporadic stroke appeal to keep you awake. Ariel Knight plays a woman who marries wealthy men, then poisons them to collect on their insurance. Despite all this wealth she accumulates, she still lives with a roommate in a fairly tacky apartment. Blond bone-box Ariel cops the lion's share of fuck time, appearing in four of the six sex scenes, none of which she approaches with too much vim for quim or cock. It's up to ravenous redhead Jacqueline Lorian to perk up the dwindling sperm count, getting poles to perk in her lascivious labe lashing with Nikki Randall, and a randy threeway with nubile Nikki and cocksman extraordinaire Jamie Gillis. It's obvious that Thomas wanted to make a "quality" video, but with a lethargic pace and too much talk, it's hard to keep the old crotch-fire burning.

—Sam Lowry
JUNE HUSTLER

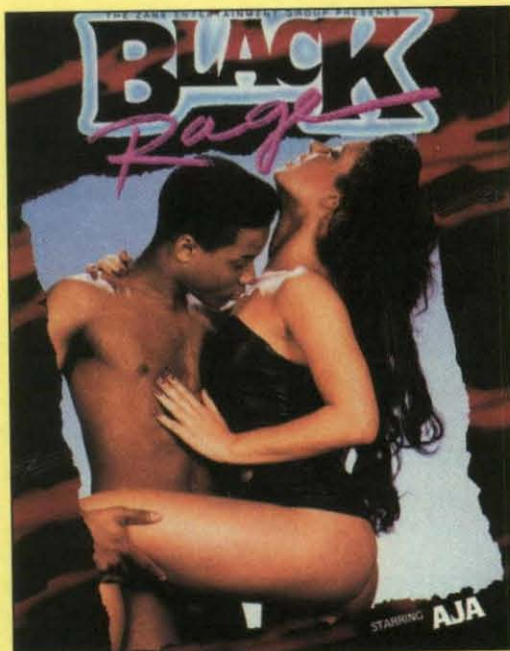

Shot on Video.

Three-Quarters Erect. Directed by Michael Morrison; starring Aja, Stephanie Rage, Peter Lawrence, Tiffanie Storm, Megan Leigh, Billy Dee, F. M. Bradley, Toni Kristian, Gail Force and Ray Victory. Videocassette by Zane Entertainment Group.

It's hard to see what the blacks, at least the blacks in this tape, have to rage about. They've got a lot of muscles; so they're obviously getting enough food. They've got big dicks; so obviously they're not suffering from Napoleonic penis syndrome. And they get to fuck the streaming slits of sultry white sluts such as Stephanie Rage, Aja, Tiffanie Storm or Megan Leigh, while getting paid for it; so they're obviously unaffected by chronic unemployment and backed-up testicles. In truth, the only rage in Black Rage are raging black hard-ons sliding through the slick and shiny lips of hungry-throated ofay chicks, slipping into willing and wanton fair-skinned honey pits, stirring pussy juice so the Caucasian cooze quivers and shakes, battering milky breasts and snowy buns with spuzz-spitting ebony love truncheons, dribbling the pale discharge from their hards of darkness onto the butts, bellies, breasts and beatifically debased faces of peckerwood pussies. With dusky penises plundering, looting and shooting, Black Rage is a riot of interracial raunch.

—C. S.

HOT SPOT TORI WELLES

Tawny and taut, nubile Tori Welles smells of sex-screen super-success. When was the last time a fresh fish flopped into the flesh pool and immediately landed feature roles in star vehicles? Welles's lips curl in a sensual sneer as her dark-brown eyes flash depravity, her nipples popping and her twat out-thrust. And that's just to brush her teeth! Tori has a chip on her libido, and the studs of scumland are lining up to knock off a piece of it. Vivid Video, the company whose foresight brought mega-stardom upon Ginger Lynn, has already signed Welles to an exclusive ten-picture deal, at the end of which she will be either cunt-dead or rocketing toward the constellation of cooze immortals. Snatches of Welles's wicked wantonness are on display in Erotic Images' Westside Tori, Wave Video's Torrid, Vivid's Sleeping Beauty Aroused (with Hyapatia Lee) and In-Hand's bisexual The Offering. We hope to see the best of Tori and her discreetly pierced, diamond-studded nose.

Sexual Aids:

How to order them without embarrassment.

How to use them without disappointment.

If you've been reluctant to purchase sexual aids through the mail, the Xandria Collection would like to offer you two things that may change your mind:

1. A guarantee
2. Another guarantee

First, we guarantee your privacy. Should you decide to order our catalogue or products, your transaction will be held in the strictest confidence.

Your name will never (never) be sold or given to any other company. No unwanted, embarrassing mailings. And everything we ship to you is plainly packaged, securely wrapped, without the slightest indication of its contents on the outside.

Second, we guarantee your satisfaction. Everything offered in the Xandria Collection is the result of extensive research and real-life testing. We are so certain that the risk of disappointment has been eliminated from our products, that we can actually guarantee your satisfaction — or your money promptly, unquestioningly refunded.

What is the Xandria Collection?

It is a very, very special collection of sexual aids. It includes the finest and most effective products available from around the world. Products that can open new doors to pleasure (perhaps many you never knew existed!)

Our products range from the simple to the delightfully complex. They are designed for both the timid and the bold. For anyone who's ever wished there could be something more to their sexual pleasure.

If you're prepared to intensify your own pleasure, then by all means send for the Xandria Collection Gold Edition catalogue. It is priced at just four dollars which is applied in full to your first order.

VIDEO of the MONTH

Nicole Stanton: Peter North puts tongue-tip to Alicia Monet's clit. Eva Allen tweaks John Leslie's nips.

THE NICOLE STANTON STORY

Shot on Film.

Three-Quarters Erect. Directed by Henri Pachard and Alex DeRenzy; starring Eva Allen, John Leslie, Randy West, Megan Leigh, Kendal Marx, Scott Irish, Annette Haven, Jade East and Peter North. Videocassette by Caballero Home Video.

The Nicole Stanton Story, with its lush, shot-on-film look and the dually effective directing of Henri Pachard and Alex DeRenzy, is very much like a real movie. So why, if someone wants to see a real movie, don't they just go see a real movie? Because of the sex, stupid. Megan Leigh, dollface of the titless nipples, is only primed by Peter North's massive eruption of spuzz; Megan expands her realm of scuz with the putz splash of Scott Irish. Title-role hole Eva Allen indulges in a dirty back-room bone with Randy West; later she's a dining-tabletop trollop under gonadal gourmand John Leslie. Hairy and swarthy eager beaver Kendal Marx sinks face and furrow onto Randy West's wand, and Jade East does the raised-leg, mattress-back monkey with horizontal mamboer Peter North. The plot, subplots and characterizations are all as superb as that shit gets, but could have been pared back for one more superb fuck. And that's the whole Nicole Stanton story.

BEST BODY IN TOWN

Shot on Video.

Half Erect. Directed by Annie G.; starring Angela Baron, Lori Leigh, Jade East, Tina Taylor, Stella Star and Susan Manson. Videocassette by Fantasy Home Video.

In a town of top-dollar torsos, Angela Baron has one of the best bodies money can buy. Chest proudly supporting twin monuments to medical craftsmanship, Angela rises from a sudsy tub of quaff-worthy bathwater to turn her other prime asset to the lens in Best Body in Town. Wedging an extendable, gold-plated plumbing fixture in the crevice of her butt cleavage, nudging the lucky nozzle into the folds of her furrow flaps, pressing the shiny spigot against her puckered pooter, Angela wags her tail for endless minutes on end into the faces of her worshipful viewers, many of whom will be down on their knees, forcibly restraining themselves from licking her crack on their TV sets. Who cares if Angela comes in contact with no other human in Best Body? Who cares if the rest of the tape is made up of generic sluts doing mundane carnalities unto themselves? Who cares if it's really a ripoff? Only the rest of us.—C. S.

THE RETURN OF THE A TEAM

Shot on Video.

One-Quarter Erect. Directed by Patti Rhodes; starring Robert Bullock, Joey Silvera, Frankie Leigh, Robin Lee, Nina Hartley, Trinity Loren and Mike Horner. Videocassette by Western Visuals.

In porn parlance the letter A in a video title signifies sodomy, an activity performed with increasing rarity in today's smut. Also in the idiom of the muck medium, a rubric phrase such as The Return suggests a ripoff of a bygone peak of prurience. Naturally, The Return of the A Team is viewed with a chary eye, that big, unblinking orb on the end of the collective consumer prick. The Return has a disposable storyline that unfolds in migrainous detail and several purported ass-fuckings presented with a suspect lack of verifying camera angles. Only the initial rectal ream, Joey Silvera pulling out of Frankie Leigh's cunt and squeezing the tip of his turgid prong into her slimed sphincters, can with any degree of certainty be accepted as genuine. For the rest of it, as much as the skeptical scumster would like to see Nina Hartley cunt-and-crap-hole-jammed, or Frankie Leigh and Robin Lee alternately butt-boffed by Mike Horner after he's plowed Trinity Loren's pooper, these putative turd packings are bereft of shitter insertion shots, and the close-ups all appear to be of the same log lodged in the same shitpit, with the same girl's hand coming back to thrash the same clit. Maybe The Return of the A Team is the real chocolate-chamber thing, but they'll have to come back again to prove it.

JUNE HUSTLER

Randy West comes up to snuffle a rising Angel.

ANGEL RISING

Shot on Video.

Half Erect. Directed by Richard Mailer; starring Angel, Randy West, Isabell Rovetti, Peter North, Shanna McCullough, Renee Morgan, Lynn LeMay, Aja, Tom Byron and Ray Victory. Videocassette by Intropics Video.

The most heavenly hair pie in all of humpdom continues on her comeback trail with this semi-arousing slew of snatch stuffings. Gorgeous as ever, Angel even shows a little enthusiasm as she gets her creamy crack licked and pricked in a trio of erotic encounters. The storyline is thin—Angel tells producer Randy West she wants back in the boff biz—but their twat-and-tool tryst takes top honors for sheer heat. West chews her clit and cunt with such fervor, you expect to see his head disappear into that silken snatch. Ditto for the delectable muff-dives Angel and Shanna McCullough take on each other, slurpin' and sniffin' slots into orgasmic ecstasy. Angel's boning with Peter North produces a backside bathing of ball butter that covers her from butt to brain, as only that cannon of copious cream can. The Ray Victory-Lynn LeMay drill 'n' spill is semihot, but the opening and closing twat torquings, a lame threeway with North, Renee Morgan and Isa Rovetti, and a blah boning on Aja by Tom Byron keep this Angel installment from rising to ball-burning heights.

CUM RAIN, CUM SHINE

Shot on Video.

Half Erect. Directed by John T. Bone; starring Carol Cummings, Frankie Leigh, Ashley Winger, John Dough, Elise, Randy West and Marc Wallace. Videocassette by Fantasy Home Video.

Perennial journeyman director of low-budget boff video John T. Bone knows exactly how little is needed to make a perfectly mediate erotic entertainment. He puts all of that and nothing more into Cum Rain, Cum Shine: clever title; breezy parody of porn cliches; locations arrayed in two or three rooms; four broads, three of whom take dick, two twice; and three cocksman to spew on the dollies. Bone also tosses in a middling muff-to-muff mangle in which each ginch has tattoos and a dildo. Frankie Leigh's dildo is black, and she sucks it in a stunning display of simulated biracial heterosexuality that fails to compensate for her lack of a true screwing. Of the three chicks who do suck and squat on prick, two are unremarkably oblivion-bound; the other is star of the show Carol Cummings, a career-tanned, bought-boobed brunette who catches Marc Wallace's cum, then provides atmosphere, something better achieved through the liberal application of many fucking sluts.

BACKDOOR TO HOLLYWOOD V: KASCHA'S WAY

Shot on Video.

Three-Quarters Erect. Directed by Ron Prestissimo; starring Kascha, Laurel Canyon, Charli Waters, Nina De Ponca, Francois Papillon, Blake Palmer and Marc Wallice. Videocassette by Cinderella Home Video.

There's just enough back-door action to qualify Hollywood V as an anal tape—three scenes if you count vibrating butt-probes, two if you don't. But when one of the two has Kascha, the epitome of innocence, gazing into your eyes, asking, "Can you stick your big, thick cock in my asshole?" you won't care if there's not another ass-fuck on the tape as long as someone plugs hers. The someone who does, of course, is Francois. Never mind, it's worth it. A virgin browneye being opened onscreen is an event in any case—with someone as stunning as Kascha, it's historic. After fucking her mouth, tits and pussy, Francois manages to lodge the head in her tight little tunnel o' fudge, upon which Kascha says, in that little-girl voice, "Oh, I love it in the ass." You'll love it in her ass too. The second-hottest scene has Laurel Canyon straddling Blake Palmer, her fingers in her butt as she bounces on his fat wedge. That's as anal as this one gets, but Laurel's animalism—and new boobs—help compensate for the lack of rear-ramming. Charli Waters ends the tape with a pool of Marc Wallice's jizz on her thoroughly porked pucker, lending a little more credibility to the title. Without Kascha it wouldn't have been enough.

—John Cooper

Is that Francois knocking at Kascha's Backdoor?

SECOND SKIN

Shot on Video.

One-Quarter Erect. Directed by John Leslie; starring Ona Zee, Cheri Taylor, Jamie Gillis, Charli St. Cyr, Mike Horner, Joey Silvera, Damien Cashmere, April West and Pamela Rose. Videocassette by VCA.

Some people earn their keep by presenting sex as a no-fun proposition—fuck-scared clergy; sadistic educators; sick, twisted parents; and in some cases the odd director of adult videos. Esteemed cock spritzer turned renowned slime director John Leslie has assembled a cast of wormy characters so loathsome in Second Skin that the well-balanced viewer would rather watch them stabbed to death than balling. Indeed, even Leslie seems to have been repulsed by his ensemble, killing them all off at the end of the picture. Before then, a few dicks dig deep to spit up on Ona Zee; nubile Charli St. Cyr takes bone and direction from Jamie Gillis; April West and Pamela Rose pitch their combined assets, tits, faces and cunts for Joey Silvera's residual sperm; giant-jugged Cheri Taylor places her sperm-magnet bod at the disposal of Silvera and Damien Cashmere, who testicularly trash it, only to have Gillis add the garbage from his groin to their dick discards. In the climactic scene, Second Skin is revealed to be a vision of damnation. To watch it a second time would be pure hell.

Fear and hypocrisy have repressed sexual awareness, leading to the ignorance that spreads disease and creates violence, in addition to hindering our natural enjoyment of sex. This series opens the door to current sexual knowledge and expression, and improved love-making.

Pregnancy and Sex

As a woman reaches the age of 30-something, a combination of her hormones and primitive instincts warns the unconscious that her childbearing years are swiftly coming to a close. If she wants to demonstrate her womanhood in the most distinctive way nature has provided, the time is now...or never. The combined ticking of female baby boomers' biological clocks can be heard in the air all across the American continent, millions of hearts pounding as one, millions of clitorides swelling in yearning unison, millions of vaginas moistening in sychronization at the very thought of finally having babies filling their wombs.

Little or no medical or media attention has been focused on the subject of the male biological clock. It is reasonable to assume that men would have similar urges connected with primal adaptations for survival of the species. What began as an elementary drive to procreate evolved—particularly since the perfection of contraception—into a purely pleasurable act with no strings attached. However, men keep “getting caught” and subsequently married. Even the most committed bachelor will express a latent desire to leave a carbon copy of himself on the planet when he goes. The increase in the percentage of married men in the most recent census and the decrease in the number of divorces over the past few years make it appear that more men in our culture are looking for commitment, stability and family ties than ever before. The combined result is that an entire generation that spent most of its existence striving to avoid pregnancy at all costs is now doing everything it can to make babies on purpose.

Where Babies Come From

One of the most erotic endeavors a couple can perform together is to make a baby. It can be earthy, aboriginal, wild. There is that wonderful feeling of freedom from contraceptives. No more sticky condoms to be rolled on at the height of arousal. No more running into the toilet at the wrong moment to squirt viscous glop into a diaphragm and fumble it onto the lip of the cervix. No more eating viscous, foul-tasting, tongue-numbing glop when you go down on your loved one. No more pulling out pubic hairs when you remove even stickier used condoms.

Responsibility for contraception falls primarily on the women in our culture. They benefit hormonally and mentally from nonuse of the birth-control pill. Females are eunuchs no more. Their natural hormonal tides and surges can resume. The drudgery of remembering to take that little pill every day is gone. They are finally emancipated from the fear of future breast or ovarian cancer caused by staying on the pill for too many years. Their bodies and their minds are put at ease.

The experts tell us that erotic pleasure is mostly in the mind, and it is no different with this erotic

You know the type: proud and pouty, with a spa-toned body and all-over salon tan. She enjoys the uninhibited pursuit of decadence that's possible only when you don't have to worry about where the rent is coming from. Spoiled little Jinny's folks gave her lots of money, but no love. To satisfy her craving for attention, she loves to flash her parlor-trimmed quim to poor boys. This upper-crust lust slut will slum through any lowlife lasciviousness for a cheap thrill. Born with a silver spoon in her mouth, Jinny grew up to develop a taste for hard cock and jizz. The limo had barely stopped rocking from her coming-out, dirty-debutante, backseat ball when she dedicated her life to unsophisticated social intercourse, where all the punch lines stick to the roof of her preferred palate. The rich are different from you and I; they have more sex.

Jizz Biz Shines at Annual Consumer Electronics Show

Report by Allan MacDonell

WIRED FOR SEX

Looking furtive yet defiant, the straight world steps, eyes popping left and right, into the porno dominion.

According to Chamber of Commerce hard-line, business is business, sex is sex, and the two don't mix. In reality, bucks and fucks often overlap, nowhere more clearly than in Las Vegas, Nevada, during the Consumer Electronics Show (CES).

Staged every January in the Las Vegas Convention Center, with concurrent displays at the Hilton, Sahara and Riviera hotels, the winter CES is a galvanic, transistorized, micro-chipped, cellular-powered trade show. The 1989 version, with 1,350 exhibitors demonstrating everything from home-robot prototypes to computer games, draws enough distributors, buyers, store owners, research-and-development specialists, marketers, entrepreneurs and plain old salesmen to populate a midsize city of the future. Industry live wires throng the endless display aisles as smoothly smiling American faces glibly hawk the virtues of Japanese technology and Korean production.

A mile or so down Paradise Road from the Convention Center, at the Sahara's Space Center, a different breed of merchandiser has its wares dressed for excess.

Business-clad execs-to-be, surfeited with a half day devoted to duty at the CES main-exhibit hall, walk briskly through the Sahara's lobby, wend through the casino floor and impatiently ride the escalator up to the Space Center. Looking somehow furtive yet defiant, the straight world steps, eyes popping left and right, into the porno dominion.

The raunch realm, with booths representing VCA, Western Visuals, Caballero, Video Exclusives, Vivid Video and many others in the fuck-tape field, is more crowded than any of the straight-and-narrow sections at the CES. Smut's secret allure? Sluts. Dozens of doxies, their pouty, rapacious faces whorish and garish, teetering on rump-pumping pumps, wrapped in revealing, clinging, skintight and slinky fabrics, circulate like carnal cholesterol among the clogged arteries of the Space Center.

Clothed in a bare legal minimum, girls perch on stools, autographing glossy eight-by-tens for never-diminishing lines of slavering businessmen. Video vixens, their hard, top-dollar bodies doing the most with the least covering, stand and pose for spontaneous, tongue-flashing, wet-lipped snapshots with an unceasing procession of glassy-eyed, stuttering, dry-mouthed upstanding citizens.

"Everybody's got to make a living," commentates a righteous button-down clown, hands digging deep into his trouser pockets, face denying the intensity of his vicarious thrill. "Some people, this is all they can do."

"Isn't it enough?" asks his awed companion, eyes transfixed to Nina Hartley's buoyant, open-air nates.

Most of the tangy tarts are doing more than enough. They rank among the hardest-working girls in 'ho biz. Megan Leigh's china-doll face maintains an immaculate, inscrutable smile, her titties popping in diaphanous lingerie. She passes off one flushed Japanese capitalist for the next. The little yellow fellow clutches her to him, her face imperfectly concealing revulsion as a fellow worthy Oriental gentleman levels his camera to preserve the moment for Nipponese posterity.

"You need to have your own camera," laments a domestic dunno.

"Maybe some of these Japs will sell us one," speculates his chumpy countryman.

Enterprising Mai Lin sets up shop at the VCA booth, signing photos and selling 3-D slide viewers of her split snatch. Lin flashes an oft-sucked boobie to a video crew. "I've got to be careful," she coyly purrs.

Bionic-boobed, blue-eyed ornamental Kascha and pump-muscle frog Francois are stationed at opposing corners of the Cinderella Home Video area, plugging their latest star vehicle, Hawaii Vice.

"Kascha, is Francois going to do any gambling here in Vegas?"

"No. He works out."

The Video Exclusives enclosure features sultry Samantha Strong, hair up, bottom lip and chest out-thrust, and Tisa/Vanity, a tall, thin prop for a set of immaculate-plus paps and a full-lipped, cat-eyed face under exclusive contract with Video Exclusives. Though new, Tisa/Vanity is already sighing. Yet another yokel steps up for her signature.

"Your name is what? Sigh."

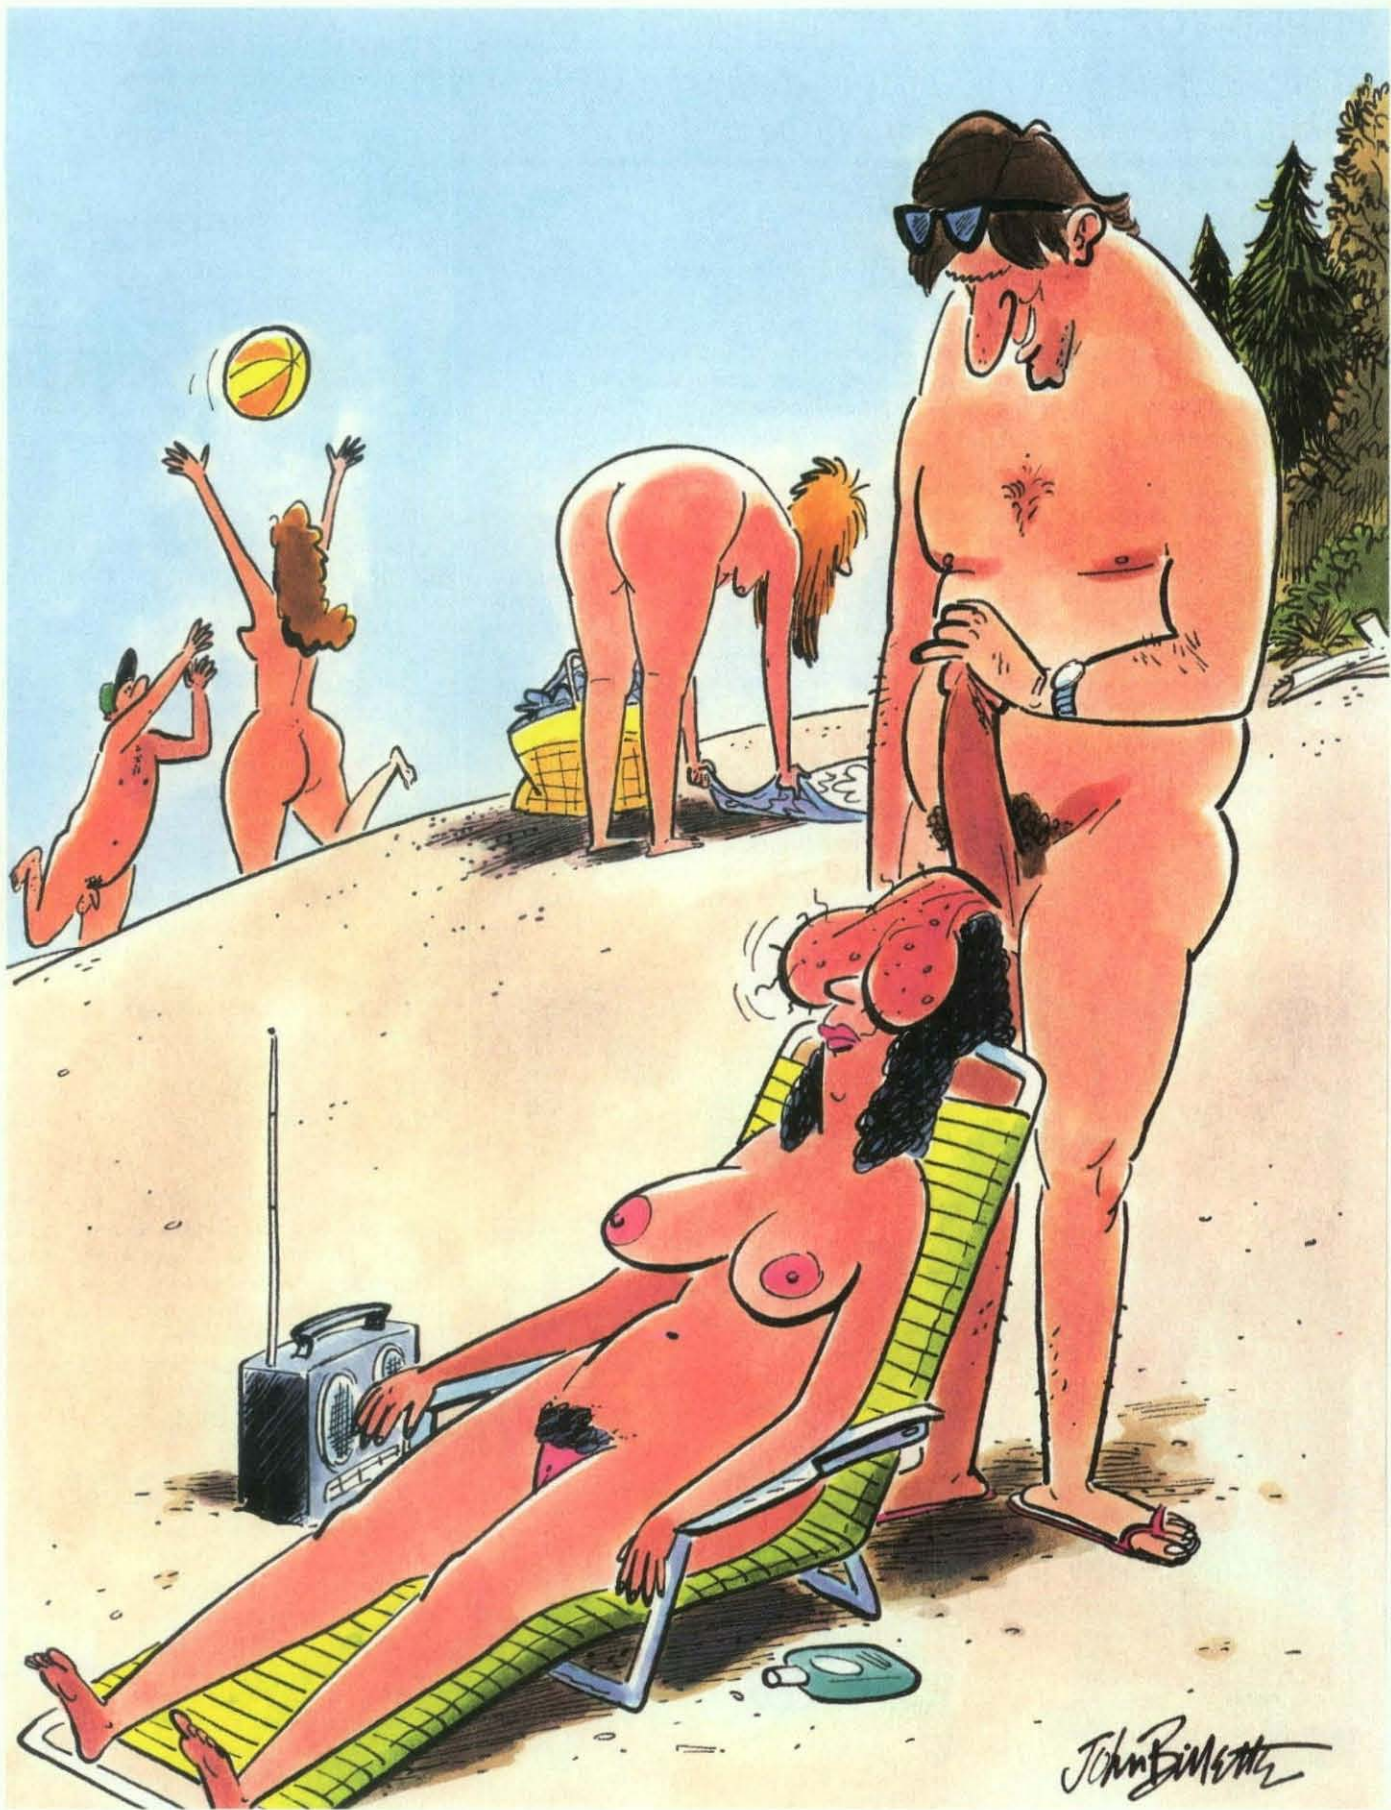

"Ben."

"Sigh. Ben?"

Over at the Arrow Video booth, starlet harlot Aja, sophisticated with her over-the-elbow black gloves, is looking even better than she does on TV. But even in person, Aja seems to be less than completely there. Tracey Adams, overfilling her full-cut, sequined dress at the Eros Entertainment setup, is more there than ever, though less there than booberiferous Cheri Taylor from Girls Are Busting Loose. Open and personable, Cheri's huge melons spill from a strained, red halter top; her voluminous butt tests the limits of stressed, red stretch pants.

"You shouldn't call your teacher a stupid cunt. You never want to be entirely truthful with a woman!"

"Guess who-o-o!"

WIRED FOR SEX

"The Vaseline may rub off the teeth, the smile may go, but the tongue always works," sparks Frankie Leigh.

Lost in the shuffle and crush of plush protuberances, Foxy Video's newcomer Lisa Lamborghini ("you know, like the car") sits and sulks. Fed up, she stands and walks into the crowd, displaying a prime asset.

Long-gone Bunny Bleu, archetypical pasty-skinned, beach-blond bimbo, is back from oblivion and signing autographs at the Bizarre Video booth. Bizarre specializes in bondage, spanking and S&M tapes, activities that must be filmed with no insertion. Bunny points to a promo photo of herself bound in leather straps, her nipples being given a vicious twist.

"That's nice," ventures an admirer.

"Thank you," chirps perky Bunny.

At the Zane Entertainment Group a line of shoving sex fiends impatiently awaits a moment in the attention span of Hyapatia Lee, perennial porn star and wife of smut director Bud Lee.

"Allan," intones Hyapatia, her voice full of husky, sweet meaning. "How do you spell it?"

"Those are great eyes, Hyapatia. A-L-L-A-N. How did they get so blue?"

"Allan and Sean, those are the two worst to spell."

The line moves on; the fleeting second in Hyapatia's gaze is gone.

Wiry and lively Frankie Leigh, basically bad in a miniscule black dress, black pumps and black fishnets, sits all smiles and dimples, cracking jokes and oozing down-home, Florida-bred charisma.

"How about another picture, Frankie?"

Leigh exposes one of her most sensual organs to the shutterbug.

"The tongue always works," sparks Frankie, flashing said appendage in proof. "The Vaseline may rub off the teeth, the smile may go, but the tongue always works."

Though Nina Hartley's pink, leopard-skin tights have no legs and nothing to cover her butt cheeks, they clasp and cleave her titties in a way to arouse the unbridled envy of Nina's encircling well-wishers at the Bon-Vue Video exhibit.

"How could I not be having a good time?" asks Nina rhetorically, adjusting her thigh-high, black-leather, stiletto-heeled boots. "Everyone's here going, 'Hey, I love you.'"

Back at the Arrow Video enclave, G-spot spouter Fallon fills in for a lunching

Aja. Fallon, the shoulder pads of her off-white dress askew, her white pumps scuffed and soiled, has forgotten her blond wig. A devoted fan points to the honey-haired strumpet in his freshly signed photo. "But who is this girl?" he bewails of brunette Fallon. "I wanted a picture of you."

An Arrow marketing exec confides, "We should have got a water fountain to go in here with Fallon."

Glamour is all in a Saturday's work for gorgeous Porsche Lynn in outrageous black sequins that fully expose her belly at the Western Visuals headquarters. Lynn's skin up close has a suppleness totally lost to the video camera. Bedecked in a fine, black-lace tablecloth, Trinity Loren's big butt, something seldom lost upon the video camera, is prominent among the cavalcade of Western Visuals cooze, all but eclipsing Rachel Ryan's cutesy Shirley Temple getup.

All sporting dark tuxedos, starched white shirtfronts and tight bow ties, the gray-head honchos and long-haired underlings of Western Visuals exude style and taste.

"Hey, stand up," brays one such man of class to property Lynn LeMay. "You're wasting a perfectly good tit-job."

LeMay bounds to her feet and pulls the grinning face of an ecstatic Negro bystander into the cushy cleft of her plump, big bosom. She casts the blood away and clasps the next man in line to her commodious chest. The crowd cheers as one by one their representatives are grabbed and fondled by LeMay's breasts.

"I don't think they're fake," avers a baldo stunned in buxom afterglow. "She squashed them up against me, and they were soft."

As any glaze-eyed regular guy wandering blindly with porn-slut-applied lipstick on his face will attest, getting within dick-spitting distance of cathode-ray maenad is reason to swoon. Clusters of cowboy-hatted aficionados confer in hushed tones.

"I walk up to these girls, and I know so much more about them than they know about me. I could tell them apart by their assholes alone."

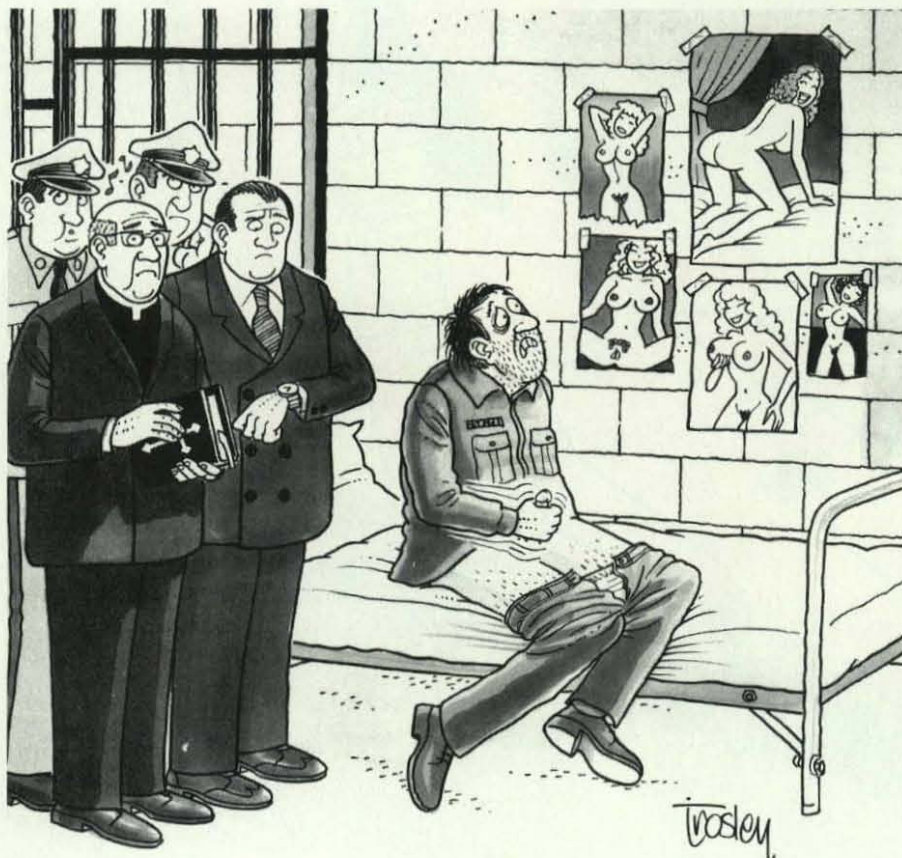

Fascinating as deep discussions of applied aesthetics may be, the CES, even in the sperm-opera section, is a trade show, a place for talking shop.

"They had three days to make two," confides hedgehog Ron Jeremy, his girth wrapped in a BORN TO BE HUGGED T-shirt (hugged by what?). "They didn't do bad. The reviews slammed it."

Business is business.

"Can I help you?" demands an imposing man in a good suit patrolling the VCA Pictures compound. His sunken and ringed eyes glare down a long, pointed Ever since Rusty saw the blond filly at the rodeo, the broncobuster yearned to wrangle between her long, luscious legs. But it wasn't until the baby-face cowboy won the bull-tying contest that he got up the gumption to ask the statuesque strumpet if she'd like to saddle up with a real live buckaroo. It was then that the couple learned they had something in common: They both like to fuck with their boots on. Eager to ram his horn home, Rusty risked denim burns to get at the cow-girl's fun little titties and juicy clit. Then Tawny purred, "Do to me what you did to that bull."

A man wearing a cowboy hat, a light blue button-down shirt with the top buttons open, blue jeans, and brown cowboy boots is lying on his back on a bed. His arms are raised behind his head. The bed has a wooden headboard and several pillows, including one with a geometric pattern. The background shows a window with light blue curtains.

Cowpokin'

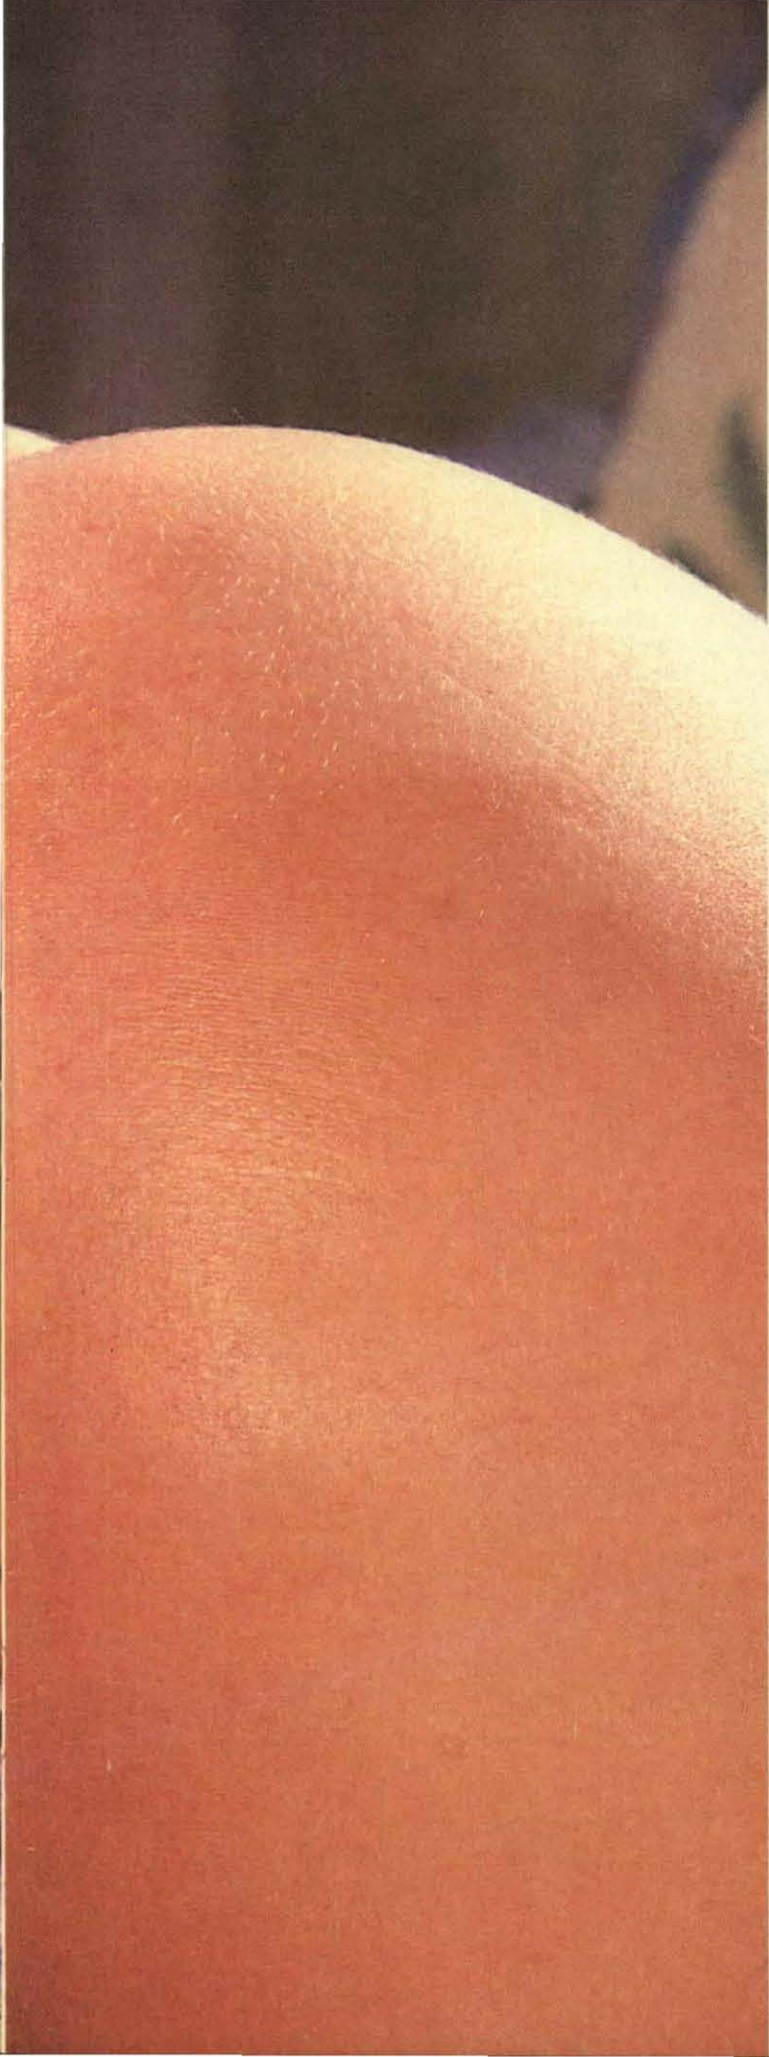

Raunchy Rusty screamed, "Yahoo!" and turned the hot honey around to apply a proper boner branding. Then some furious down-home screwing ensued that gave the rodeo prince more action than he had all day at the contest. And why not? After all, Tawny was by far his best ride of the day.

A clearly delineated G-string runs up the crack of Tori's ass, a route legions of hanging tongues lust to take.

nose. "These tables are reserved for buyers and clients."

Aside from one unassuming journalist, VCA's half-dozen tables are entirely deserted. What kind of putz chases away the sole inhabitant of his company's hospitality area? His name is Marty Turkel, general manager of VCA pictures. What Turkel lacks in basic courtesy and people skills, he makes up for in commercial acumen.

"The harder you work, the luckier you get," aphorizes Turkel, predicting that VCA will get lucky in the coming year by augmenting revenues with small-boxed sell-through promotions. Repackaged in form-fitting cardboard containers, VCA classics such as New Wave Hookers and Deep Inside Vanessa Del Rio dispense with expensive, plastic cassette cases, retailing to the consumer for around $20, which beats dumping 50 simoleons on some contemporary garbage video.

Not content to profiteer upon its laurels, VCA will market new ventures, particularly those of stunt dick-turned-director John Leslie, whose productions range in cost between $50 and $75 thousand, with six days shooting and one day getting outside footage. The industry norm is a day and a half to two days shooting; budgets start in the vicinity of eight grand.

Aside from Leslie's output, VCA will also release Paul Thomas's Phantom of the Opera takeoff, and stroke work by Henri Pachard and Alex DeRenzy. Due to legal considerations, the directors are not actually hired. The company gives a commitment going into the project, but pays only after shooting.

Speaking of legal ramifications, now that L.A. producers have been cleared of pandering charges, will sleaze-makers resume taping within L.A. County?

"Not if they're smart," smirks Turkel.

Vivid Video must be counted among the smart operators. Vivid initiated exclusive contracts in porn, back with Ginger Lynn, setting a trend of signing bitches into the company stable, a practice followed lucratively by Western Visuals, Video Exclusives, Cinderella and others.

Aside from Ginger, Vivid has held monopolies on the muffs of Jamie "The Brat" Summers, Nikki "The Second Brat" Randall and third and latest Brat, Julianne James. Steven Hirsch, the 28-year-old owner of Vivid, attributes his company's major scuz success to: 1) box art, 2) stars, 3) distribution network. Hirsch's latest coup is a ten-picture, one-a-month contract with tawny, torrid Tori Welles, a fresh slice in the porn pie.

Toothsomely filling her skintight, white mini-dress to a point of mouth-watering duress, Welles is the 1989 CES's surprise hit. Dick-throb Tori's station at the In-Hand Video display (her bisexual feature with In-Hand predates the exclusivity agreement with Vivid) is the opening day's most swamped attraction. Tori runs her hands through her brunet mane, flexes her compact, sex-packed frame, hikes her skirt well up onto her thighs and turns on a high-beam gleam for the next guy in line. She is everyone's exultant sex kitten. If only the podium in front of her parted legs were clear Plexiglas.

Welles stands and stretches. Nasty flashes on her dirty-girl face with its demurely pierced nose. No panty lines are visible beneath her second skin of sheer fabric, but a clearly delineated G-string runs up the crack in her ass, a route legions of hanging tongues lust to take. Tori is proof of a natural girl's appeal—she has no tit-job; yet the guy standing next to her can only gape. He sure is going to enjoy watching her get fucked.

Sunday, January 8, dawns crisp and clear in Vegas. Ice glitters in the gutters. Encircling mountains put the town in a natural crater, the beauty of which can only be rivaled by the imagined magnificence of being within the tight ring of Tori Welles's squeezed sphincters.

Tori, boff-worthy bod draped in a deceptive business jacket, saunters into the Sahara Space Center at 9:40 a.m. to begin her second day of signing. People are waiting for her to arrive.

"I honestly expected to only sign a few autographs," she says of the previous day's prolonged mob scene. "I'm not that known; I haven't had too much exposure."

"I guess all you fancy girls are all out in California," hypothesizes an aged duke pawing at Tori's pile of photos.

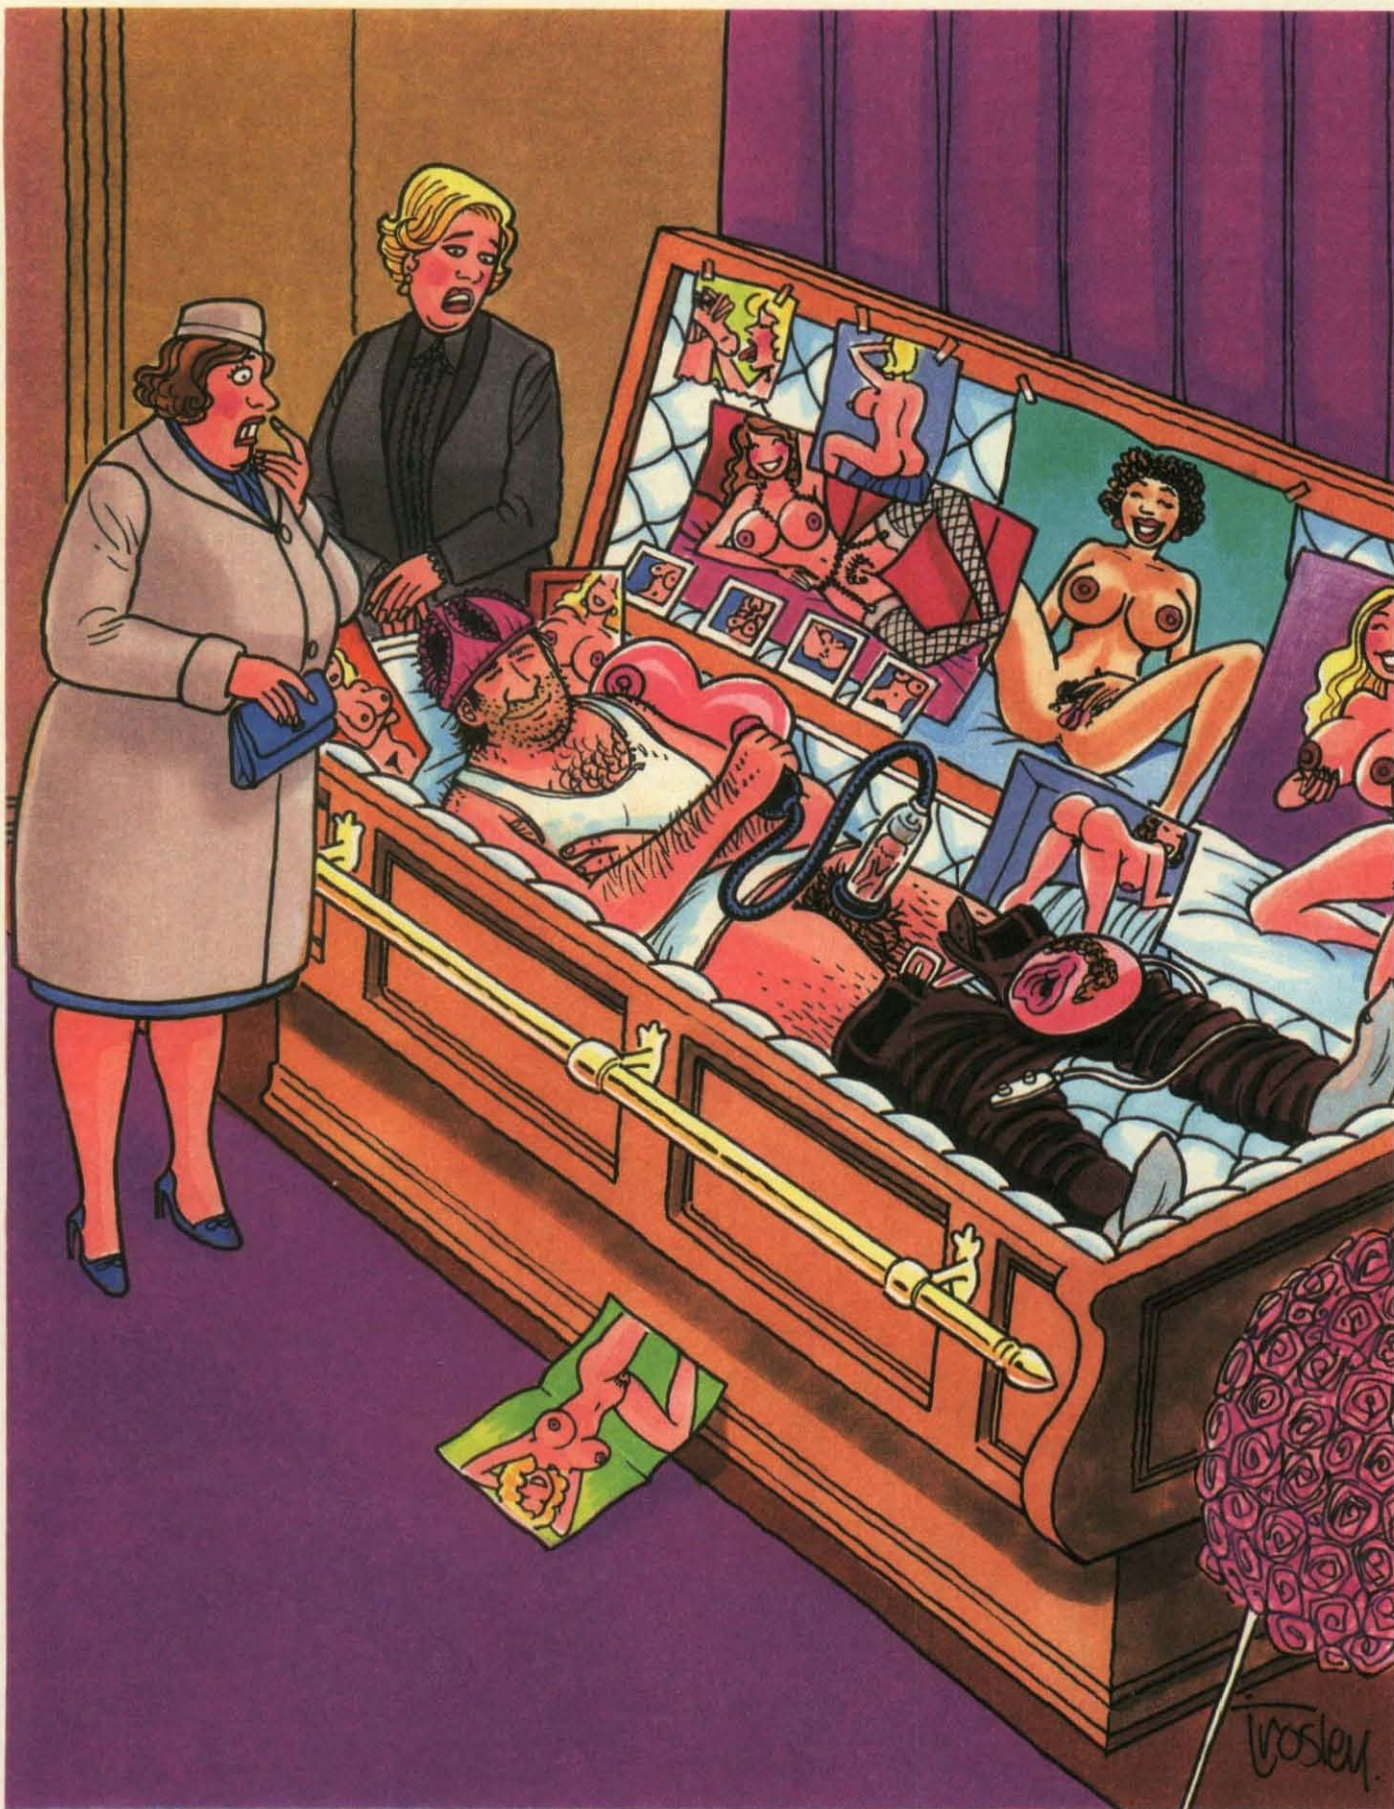

"That's right. That's where we are." Welles's sinful squint pierces his heart, or at least lances his atrophied testicles. "You have a real good day now, honey."

The aged duke trundles off, his place in line taken by three more of his ilk.

In-Hand has been in existence for a few years, says then director of advertising and publicity, Larry Paciotti, but have only recently begun promoting themselves. Award-winning director Paul Norman has been brought in to helm their bisexual line. Though In-Hand's product is primarily aimed at the gay market, the bisexual tapes are big sellers with heteros. "It's new, it's different, but it'll burn out too," pre-

"It's your mother!"

"It's the way he would've wanted to go . . ."

WIRED FOR SEX

Stephanie Rage looks as if at any minute she'll throw herself to the floor, sucking all schlongs that come along.

dicts Paciotti. "Everybody's doing it, and they're flooding the market."

Among everybody who is humping on the homo-tease bandwagon are Las Vegas Video, which also intends to branch into totally gay entertainment, and Video 10, which is counting on crossover star/producer/director/turd-burglar Jeff Stryker and his cortege of fey semi-gays (including fabulously tanned Chip Dale, who valiantly signed glossies of himself despite the hindrance of a dime-sized fever blister on his lower lip) to stroke the discretionary heterosexual dollar.

Bon-Vue Video is wagering their fortunes on a different concept. Their Just for You all-girl video series serves up squack with a twist. The gimmick is to have the femmes talk directly to the viewer, inviting him into the action.

"Why did you choose Nina Hartley for your Just for You debut?"

"Because she's got a cute ass."

Bon-Vue's sister company, B&D Pleasures, also seeks to expand its market. Though they can show no penetration at the risk of severe prison time, B&D uses established names from the hard-core field, such as Laurel Canyon, Tanya Foxx, Barbii and Robert Bullock, hoping to lure fans of regulation reaming into the realm of "consensual love bondage."

Arrow Video's vice president of sales and promotions, Mara Epstein, is happy to shoot the shit. Mara claims to have a write-up in Billboard proving she originated the sell-through, small-box sales strategy so successfully aped by Caballero and VCA. "It's the world's greatest recycling job," understates Epstein. Arrow's budget catalog is stocked with such sure hits as The Devil in Miss Jones, Debbie Does Dallas, The Satisfiers of Alpha Blue and Personal Touch II with Shauna Grant. "The only problem is that customers think something's wrong with a tape at only $14.95."

Arrow also hopes to give Vivid Video's Brat series some competition with Fallon as the Squirt.

Mara extols a return to high-quality manufacturing, claiming that such sleazy practices as duping onto used tape are engendering a consumer revolt.

"But what can you do?" she shrugs. "The pornographer's mind only thinks for the next 15 minutes."

"What were you saying?"

Stephanie Rage makes a stunning Sunday entrance, slithering within an iridescent-purple flamenco dress, cut to show lots of belly and Stephanie's sensual, triumphant twist. Earlier in the show she'd looked awkward with her outsized tits, but with her dress stretched to burst by her big bust and big butt, her towering head of big hair and her skinny little legs, she's come into her own, scooting onto the Erotic Video Network hot seat as regally as if it were a throne. Rage has an endearingly demented look, the bad girl from a small town, run away to blossom into her own. A vulnerable fragility crackles beneath her brittle surface. She may crack at any minute and throw herself knees-first to the floor, sucking all the schlongs that come along.

A more insistent group of groppers has clustered around Aja since yesterday. She's stripped down to lingerie and fishnets, retaining those sleek, over-the-elbow gloves. Aja's bared back is a favorite resting place for wandering hands during intimately posed souvenir photos.

"You know why they call her Aja-vu? Cause deja-vu means you think you saw it twice. Aja-vu makes you come twice."

Living labe legend Annette Haven, the classiest cunt in the ass industry, cruises the floor unmolested in a form-enhancing figment of maroon fabric. She sets up shop to promote her new feature for Dreamland Video and immediately attracts a long line of well-wishers, most of whom had long forsaken any hope of glimpsing heavenly Haven in the flesh.

Jade East prowls the compound in a tiger-print indecency.

"You look like you should, slutty and disgusting," spouts self-proclaimed Most Popular Male Star of the Adult Film Industry Jerry Butler, who has a good word for everybody. "I'm begging for work. I'll go to the gay section."

Director Henri Pachard is far from begging for work. He's going to Europe in April to begin a 12-picture deal.

"Why switch continents, Henri? Is it for the lauded European production values, their sweeping panoramas, the old-world appreciation of a new-world artisan?"

"I searched my soul," confides Pachard, "for my motivation. It's the money."

Though stumped for motivation, Bizarre Video's Mistress Jacqueline is a game lady, willing to play along with the press. Decked out in a studded black-leather body stocking, with black boots creeping well up past her mid-thigh, Mistress J. obligingly and precariously stands upon Bizarre's countertop at the direction of a foreign-born photographer.

"Do something domineering," demands the xenophotog, little realizing the irony to be found in commanding a dominatrix.

The Pink Ladies Social Club fort is being held down by buxom black Jeannie Pepper. A returnee to the Stateside sex scene, Pepper's been putting out in Europe for the past year.

"Will your European work filter back over here?"

"Some of it will," drawls Jeannie, "but the rest is illegal. In Europe they do extra-ordinary stuff, like golden showers."

"You did golden showers, Jeannie?"

"Sure. It's different. I like it exciting."

"We don't have the market for that kind of stuff here in America," pipes up a know-it-all.

"True," echoes the next guy in line with an asshole. "But do you have any copies of it?"

Sunday night's big event is a promotional party for Hawaii Vice in the Tropicana's Hawaii Room. Aside from shelling out for the bash, Cinderella Video bankrolled Kascha and Francois at the show, and also printed up slick, pricey posters touting the picture. They could have obviated this expense by making a decent movie, but who's to argue with a free party?

Cinderella's door is manned by a wary and chary old-timer. "We've already got three guys from HUSTLER in here," he says.

"But I'm the guy from HUSTLER."

"There's a whole group of you in here."

Conspicuous among the buffed bodies and gleaming faces on display at a porn milieu soiree is Mark Weiss. Tall, gangly, somewhat stooped, with scraggly shoulder-length hair, Weiss looks like the kind of guy who would pretend he wrote for HUSTLER. Actually, Weiss is among a select few who make a living by writing porn scripts.

"Nobody fucks a writer," bewails Weiss, who's been instrumental in launching at least half the ladies in the screen-semen business. Having seen them all without their makeup, he tells the particularly harrowing story of a girl coming in to work after an eight-day coke run, cadaverous, with no cheeks and eyes gone. "This is a porn superstar?" Yet, it is evident that he loves them all still.

Weiss's current obsession is Megan Leigh. Megan walks coolly by, the high-priced ornament on a short, balding man's arm, seemingly oblivious to Weiss's puppy eyes.

"I'd heard about this, but never seen it," Weiss mutters. "When she gets to a place like this, she becomes Megan, cold and distant. I've only known Michelle. I've never seen Megan before."

The party drags on, guests well-behaved, sedate, no one taking their clothes off. When saner men get up to leave, Weiss is still mooning at the side of Megan Leigh.

By Monday the novelty of signing autographs for admiring hordes has worn largely thin. Perhaps the girls have all gotten their periods at the same time, or are crumbling beneath the anticipatory stress of tonight's Adult Video News awards ceremony. Stephanie Rage's curdled lips are much closer to cracking mean. Samantha Strong's boredom and disinterest overshadow her overhanging features. Rachel Ryan has hit a pained stage of frozen-smiled graciousness. Viper smokes and glowers in the Adult Video Association stall, looking like she's been sucking on an extremely sour pickle. Lynn LeMay, previously seen locking lips with monster-tits Cheri Taylor to the delight of flash-popping amateur photographers, has reverted to sullenly staring down the line of craven dicks, any one of whom is eager to lick her spittle.

A few women, notably Annette Haven and Frankie Leigh, have paced themselves and retain a good humor, but the bitch level is enough to send a guy over to the regular CES show to play video games. The problem is, the mind can be taken out of the porn ambience, but the porn ambience cannot be taken out of the mind. Suddenly, every woman in a business suit looks like a candidate for double penetration. There's no escape. Give up. Go back to the Sahara.

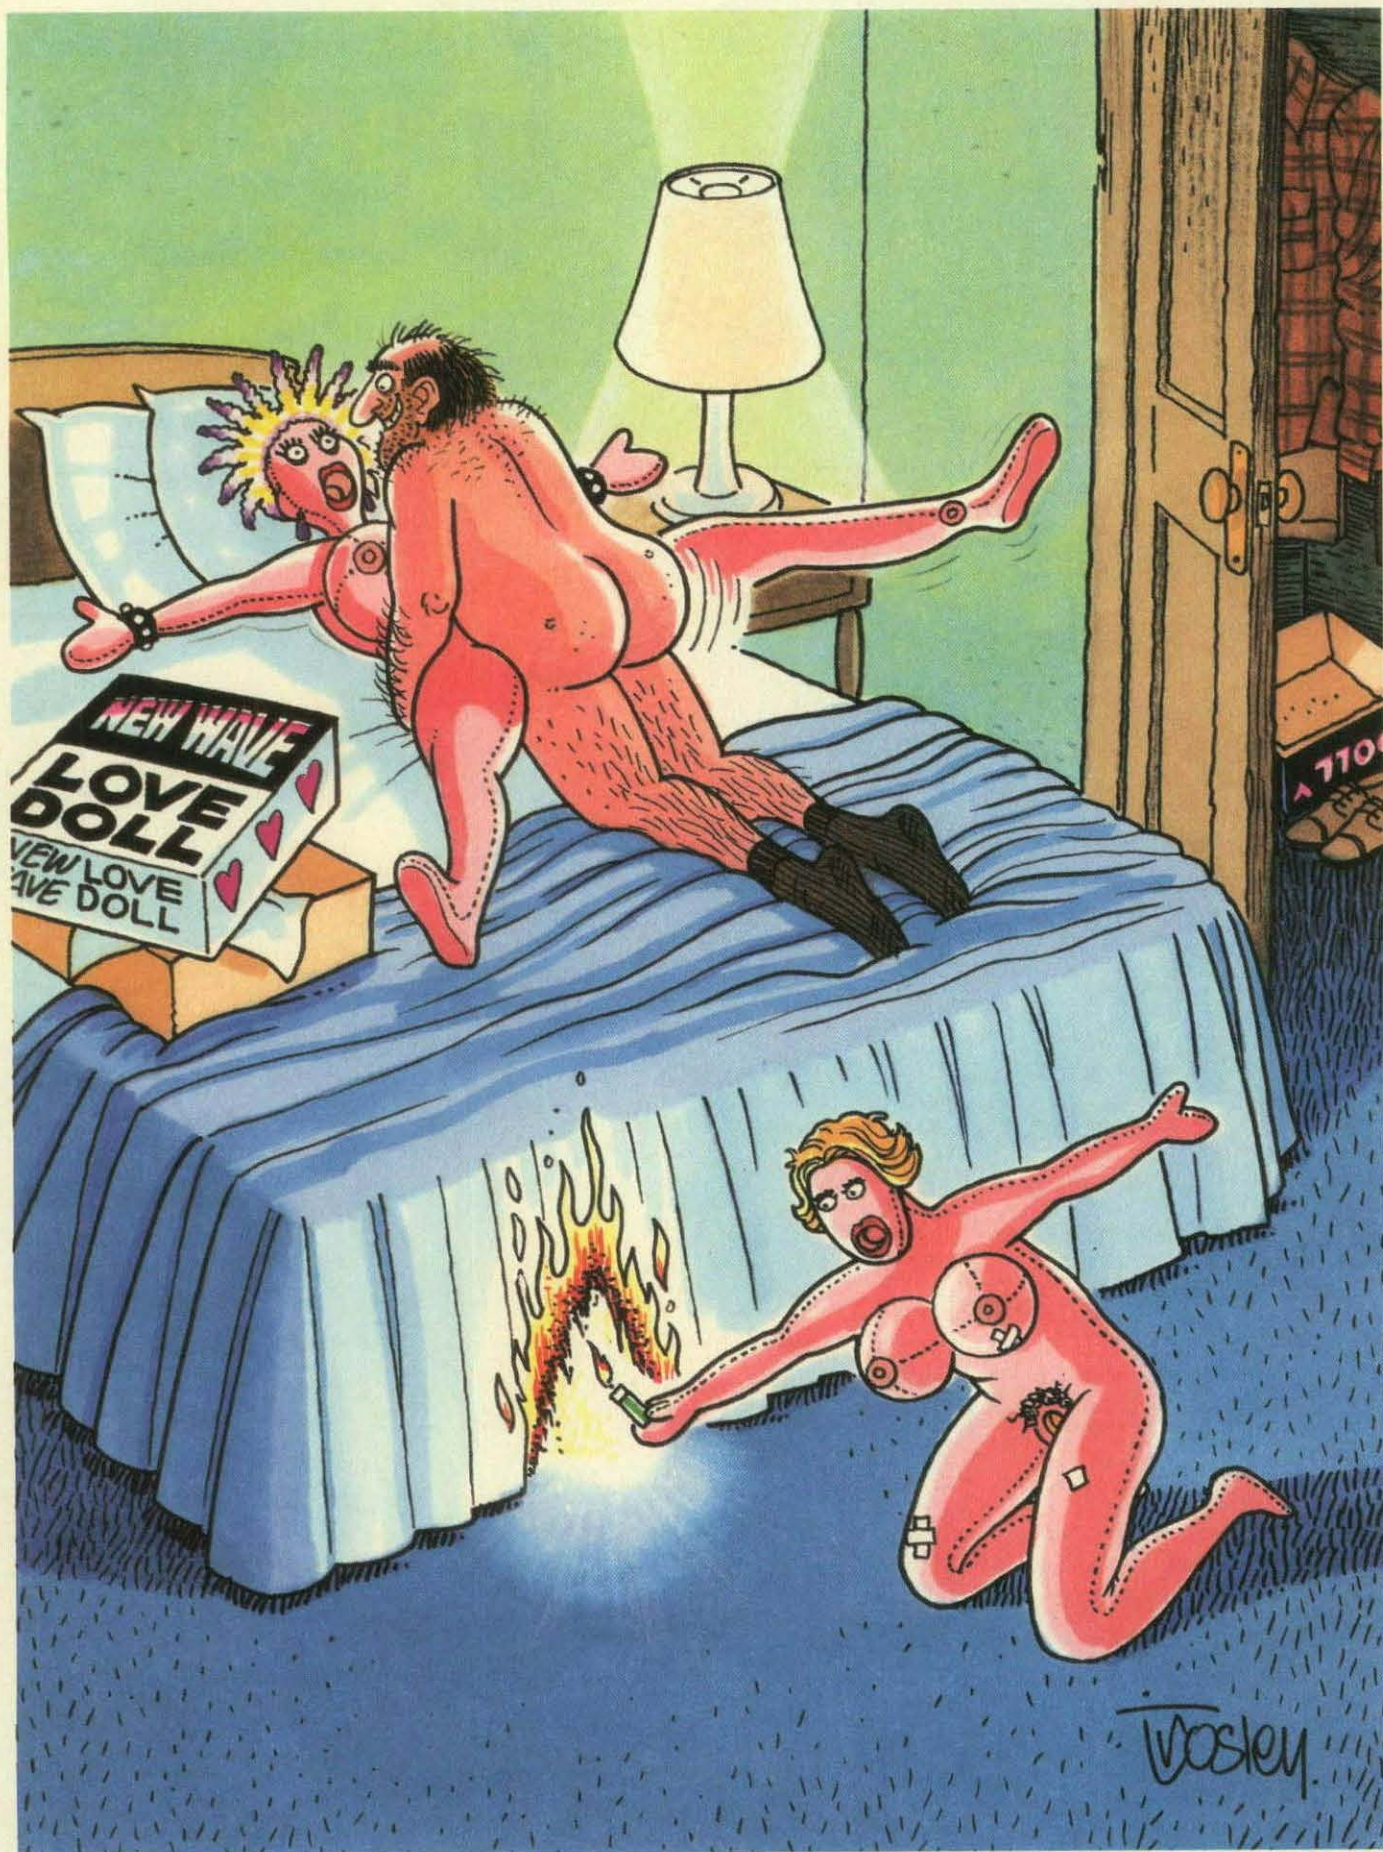

On late Monday afternoon the sex section is still more packed than the regular section. Even Ron Jeremy has a longer line waiting for his autograph than was queued up to use any of the video games, except the ones that had guns.

Dick Witte, a Caballero creative force, lodges a complaint with a VCA staffer, claiming they've ripped off his "Buy Me—at a Take Home Price" sell-through display. "You didn't even change the fucking typeface."

"Russ [Hampshire, VCA's owner] ordered us to rip off Caballero. He said, 'I want one just like Caballero.'"

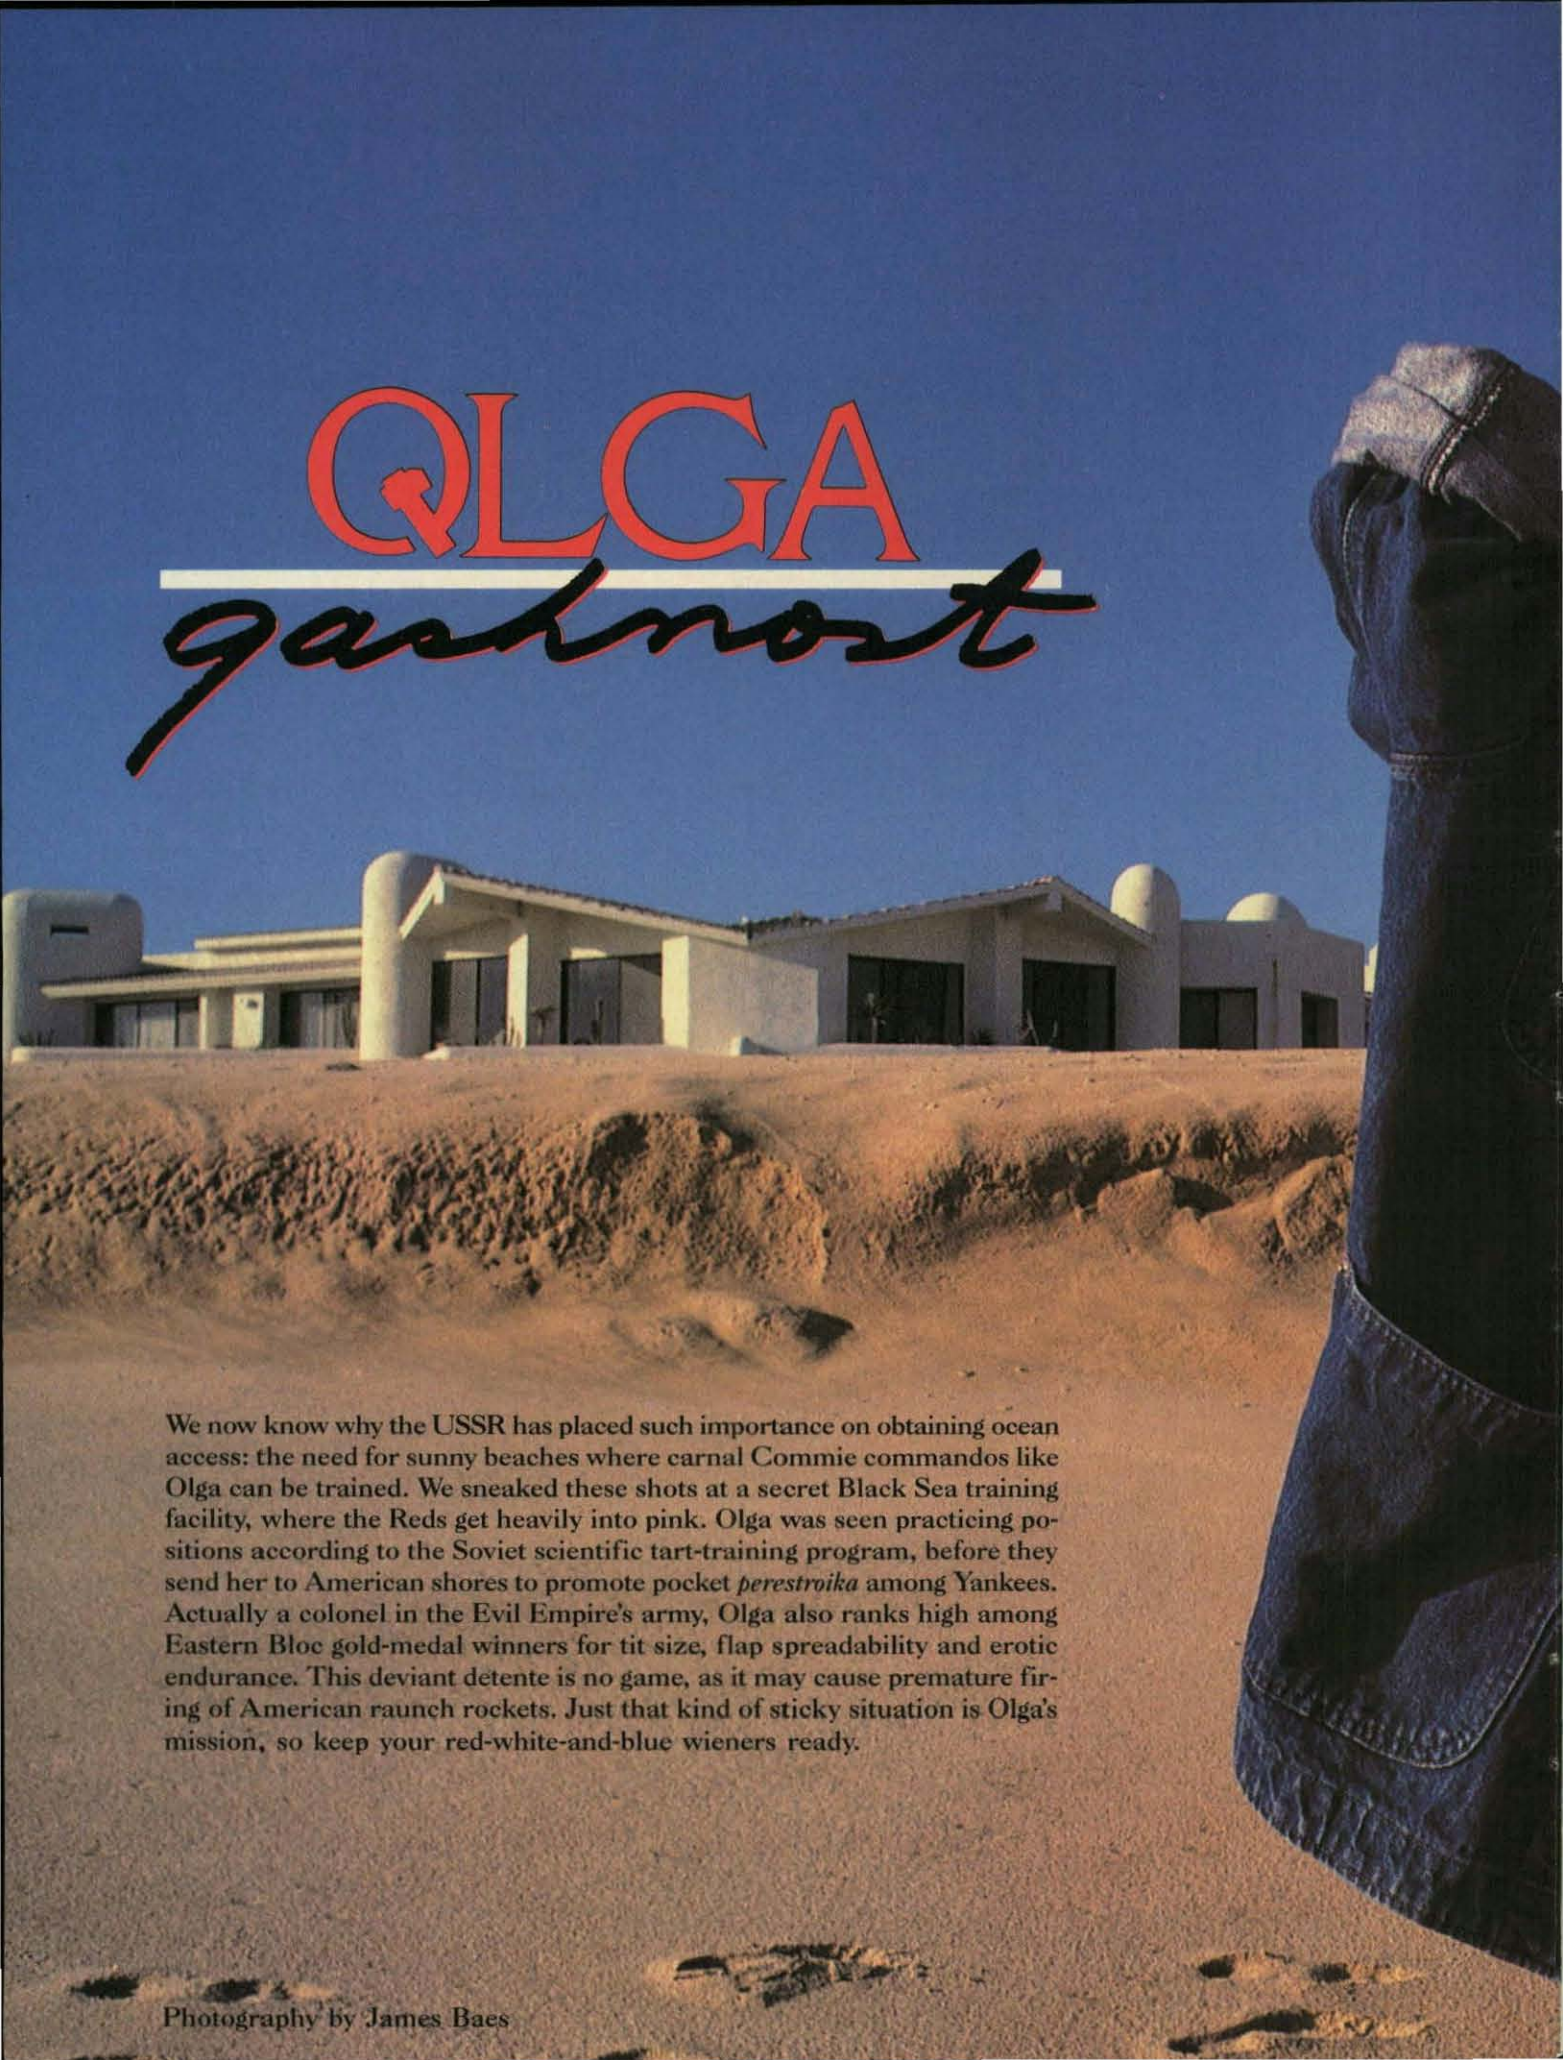

"You guys will be selling pussy in a can soon," rants Witte.

We now know why the USSR has placed such importance on obtaining ocean access: the need for sunny beaches where carnal Commie commandos like Olga can be trained. We sneaked these shots at a secret Black Sea training facility, where the Reds get heavily into pink. Olga was seen practicing positions according to the Soviet scientific tart-training program, before they send her to American shores to promote pocket perestroika among Yankees. Actually a colonel in the Evil Empire's army, Olga also ranks high among Eastern Bloc gold-medal winners for tit size, flap spreadability and erotic endurance. This deviant détente is no game, as it may cause premature firing of American raunch rockets. Just that kind of sticky situation is Olga's mission, so keep your red-white-and-blue wieners ready.

A little boy ran out into the fields in search of his daddy, who was hard at work on their farm. The kid found his dad and proceeded to tell him about a strange visitor claiming to be a preacher. His dad said, "Well, Son, what kind of preacher did he say he was?"

The kid answered, "He didn't say."

"Well, Son, pay attention. Go back to the house and find out what religion he is. If he says he's Catholic, hide the liquor. If he tells you he's Baptist, hide the money. And if he's one of those television evangelists, sit on your mother's lap until I get there!"

Question: How many college football players does it take to wash a car?

Answer: Just one, but he gets three credits for it.

The fire siren sounded throughout a small town. Immediately Jack downed his drink and rushed for the door.

"Hey, Jack!" his buddy called. "I didn't know you were a volunteer fireman."

"I'm not," Jack replied, "but my girlfriend's husband is."

While on his visit to the Holy Land, George Schultz was given a private tour of the sights by Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir. When they reached the Wailing Wall, Shamir explained that anything said near the wall was heard directly by God and suggested that Schultz stand close if he had any special requests for Him to hear.

The Secretary of State approached the wall and said, "I pray that the U.S. federal budget gets lower."

"God has heard every word," Shamir said, "and will certainly grant your prayer."

"I pray," Schultz continued, "that there be lasting peace between the U.S. and the USSR."

"You are talking directly to God," Shamir said. "Your prayer will surely be fulfilled."

"And I pray," Schultz said, "that the Israeli-occupied territories be returned to the Arabs."

"Mr. Secretary," Shamir huffed, "remember, you are only talking to a wall!"

Willard had heard so much about ice fishing that he decided to give it a try. He got all his gear together, went out onto the ice and started to drill a hole. Suddenly, a deep, resonant voice from above said, "There are no fish there."

Willard shrugged, picked up his equipment, moved another 50 feet out onto the ice and began to drill. Again a big voice boomed, "There are no fish there."

Willard looked up and asked, "Are you God?"

"No, asshole!" came the reply. "I'm the ice-rink manager."

Question: What's funnier than Richard Pryor Live?
Answer: Ted Bundy dead.

A man studying the menu at a diner asked the waiter, "What's the difference between the blue-plate special and the white-plate special?"

"The white-plate special is a dollar more," the waiter replied.

"Is the food better?"

"No," answered the waiter, "but we wash the plate."

One of the networks was looking for an emcee to host a new game show to be called Gross-Out. After interviewing dozens of mundane hopefuls, yet another guy was ushered in.

"What can you do?" the producer asked wearily.

"Watch this," the guy said. Then he took off his hat and vomited in it.

"What's so special about that?" asked the unimpressed producer.

The guy laughed and asked, "Got a straw?"

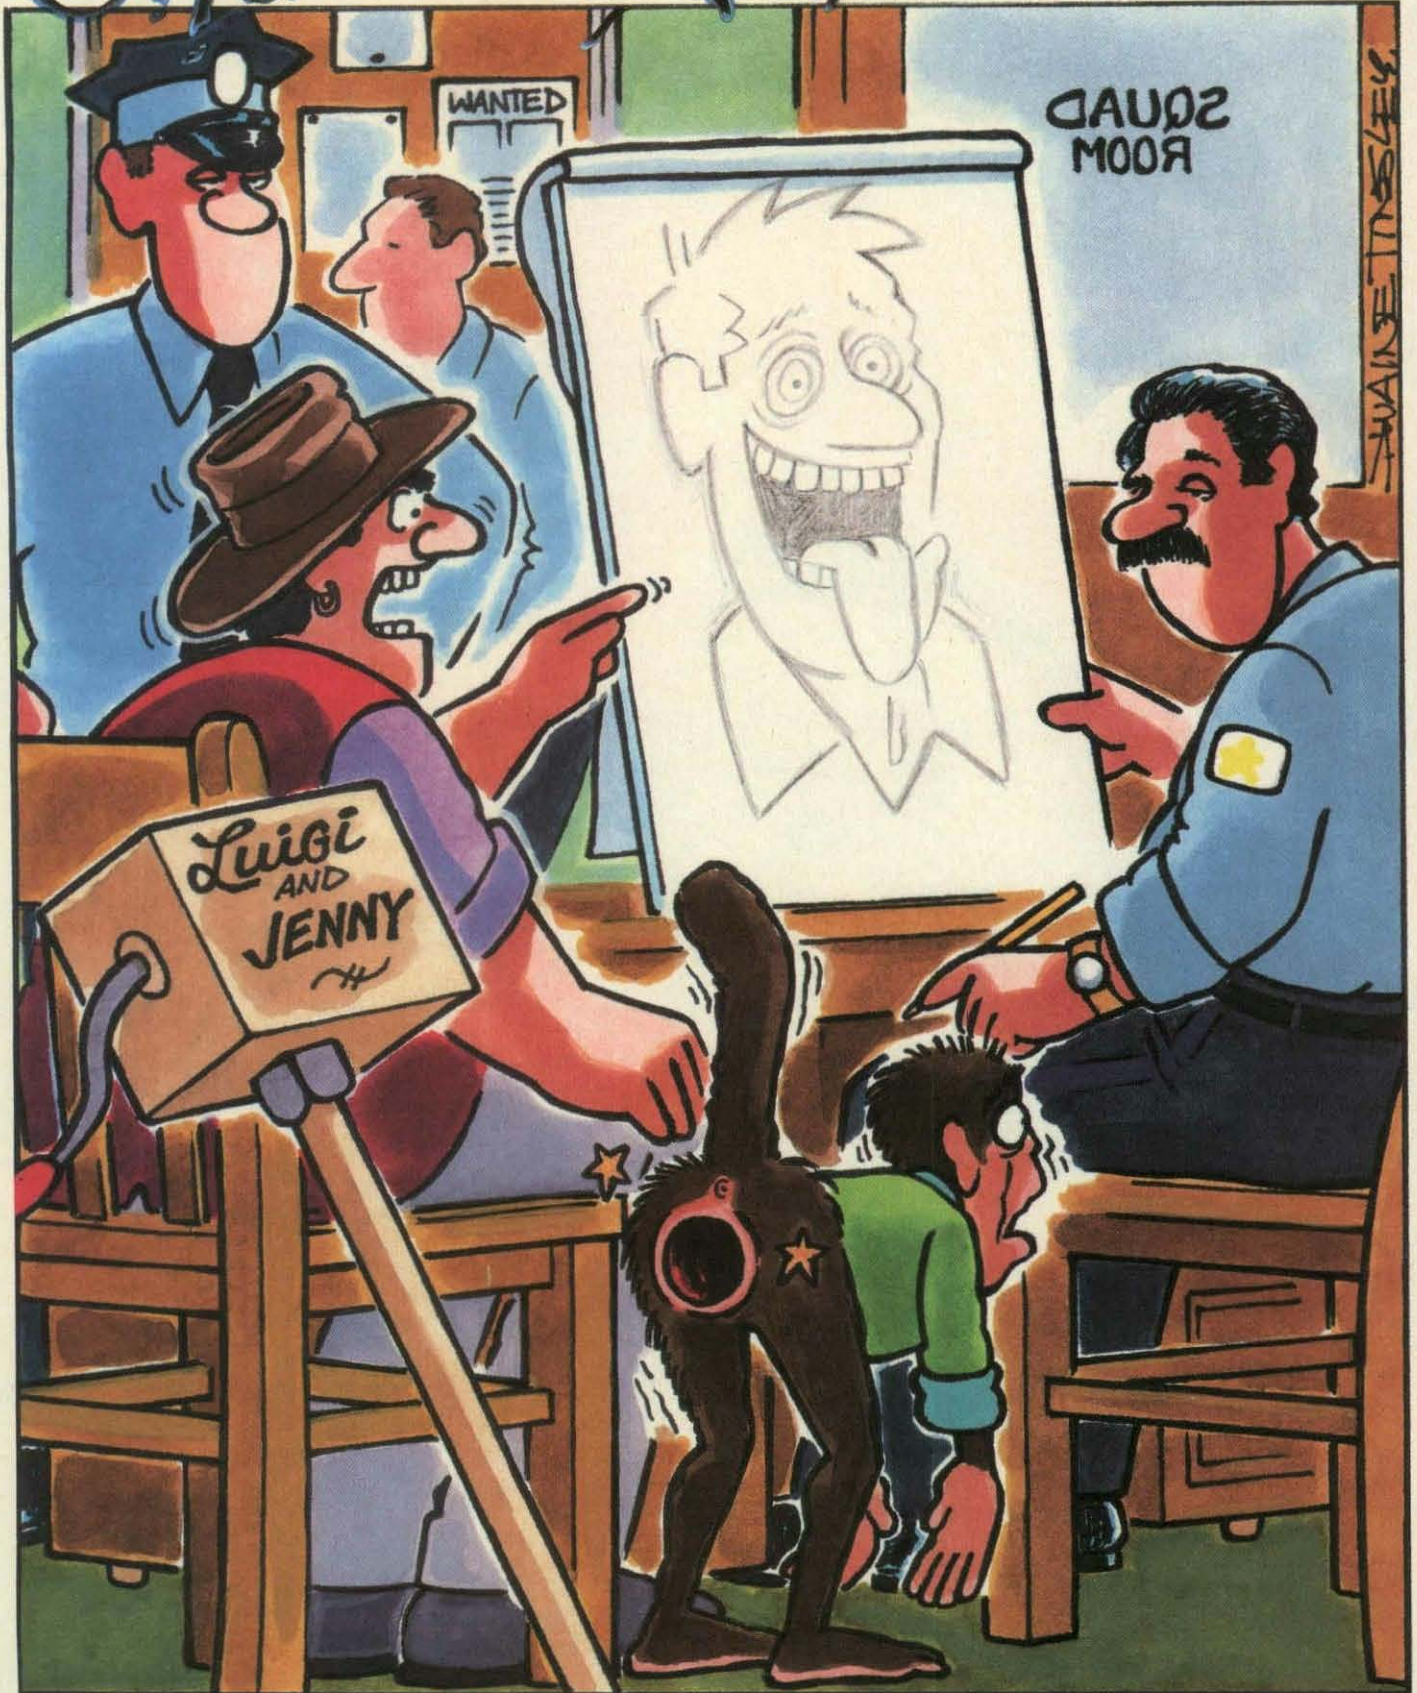

The boss of a large factory left work every day at 2 p.m., returning always at 4 o'clock on the dot. After his employees got hip to his rigid personal schedule, they put their heads together and reasoned they could leave every day at 2:05 and return at 3:55, with the boss none the wiser.

The next day the boss was out the door promptly at 2 o'clock, and all the employees cut out five minutes later, each going his own way. Bob, one of the employees, drove home to knock off an afternoon quickie, but upon entering his house, he was suddenly aware of his wife moaning in the bedroom. Listening closely, he was also able to recognize the grunting and wheezing of his boss. Shocked, he tiptoed out of the house and hurried back to the factory.

The following day, after the boss left, everyone else again got ready to leave—all but Bob. "Not me," he said. "I almost got caught yesterday."

WHO'S KILLING THE STAR WARS SCIENTISTS?

Expose by Larry Wichman

Did 22 SDI researchers really all commit suicide?

Fifty-year-old Alistair Beckham was a successful British aerospace-projects engineer. His specialty was designing computer software for sophisticated naval defense systems. Like hundreds of other British scientists, he was working on a pilot program for America's Strategic Defense Initiative—better known as Star Wars. And like at least 21 of his colleagues, he died a bizarre, violent death.

It was a lazy, sunny Sunday afternoon in August 1988. After driving his wife to work, Beckham walked through his garden to a musty backyard toolshed and sat down on a box next to the door. He wrapped bare wires around his chest, attached them to an electrical outlet and stuffed a handkerchief in his mouth. Then he pulled the switch.

STAR WARS KILLINGS

Sands, a senior scientist at 37, made a U-turn and rammed his car, full of gas cans, into a restaurant.

With his death, Beckham's name was added to a growing list of British scientists who've died or disappeared under mysterious circumstances since 1982. Each was a skilled expert in computers, and each was working on a highly classified project for the American Star Wars program. None had any apparent motive for killing himself.

The British government contends that the deaths are all a matter of coincidence. The British press blames stress. Others allude to an ongoing fraud investigation involving the nation's leading defense contractor. Relatives left behind don't know what to think.

"There weren't any women involved. There weren't any men involved. We had a very good relationship," says Mary Beckham, Alistair's widow. "We don't know why he did it... if he did it. And I don't believe that he did do it. He wouldn't go out to the shed. There had to be something. . . ."

The string of unexplained deaths can be traced back to March 1982, when Essex University computer scientist Dr.

Keith Bowden died in a car wreck on his way home from a London social function. Authorities claim Bowden was drunk. His wife and friends say otherwise.

Bowden, 45, was a whiz with supercomputers and computer-controlled aircraft. He was cofounder of the Department of Computer Sciences at Essex and had worked for one of the major Star Wars contractors in England.

One night Bowden's immaculately maintained Rover careened across a four-lane highway and plunged off a bridge, down an embankment, into an abandoned rail yard. Bowden was found dead at the scene.

During the inquest, police testified that Bowden's blood alcohol level had exceeded the legal limit and that he had been driving too fast. His death was ruled accidental.

Wife Hillary Bowden and her lawyer suspected a cover-up. Friends he'd supposedly spent the evening with denied that Bowden had been drinking. Then there was the condition of Bowden's car.

"My solicitor instructed an accident specialist to examine the automobile,"

Mrs. Bowden explains. "Somebody had taken the wheels off and put others on that were old and worn. At the inquest this was not allowed to be brought up. Someone asked if the car was in sound condition, and the answer was yes."

Hillary, in a state of shock, never protested the published verdict. Yet, she remains convinced that someone tampered with her husband's car. "It certainly looked like foul play," Hillary maintains.

Four years later the British press finally added Bowden's case to its growing dossier. First, there appeared to be two interconnected deaths, then six, then 12—suddenly there were 22.

Take 37-year-old David Sands, a senior scientist at Easams working on a highly sensitive computer-controlled satellite-radar system. In March 1987 Sands made a U-turn on his way to work and rammed his car into the brick wall of a vacant restaurant. His trunk was loaded with full gasoline cans. The car exploded on impact.

Given the incongruities of the accident, and the lack of a suicide motive, the coroner refused to rule out the possibility of foul play. Meanwhile, information leaked to the press suggested that Sands had been under a tremendous emotional strain.

Margaret Worth, Sands's mother-in-law, claims these stories are totally inaccurate. "When David died, it was a great mystery to us," she admits. "He was very successful. He was very confident. He had just pulled off a great coup for his company, and he was about to be greatly rewarded. He had a very bright future ahead of him. He was perfectly happy the week before this happened."

Like many of the bereaved, Worth is still at a loss for answers. "One week we think he must have been got at. The next week we think it couldn't be anything like that," she says.

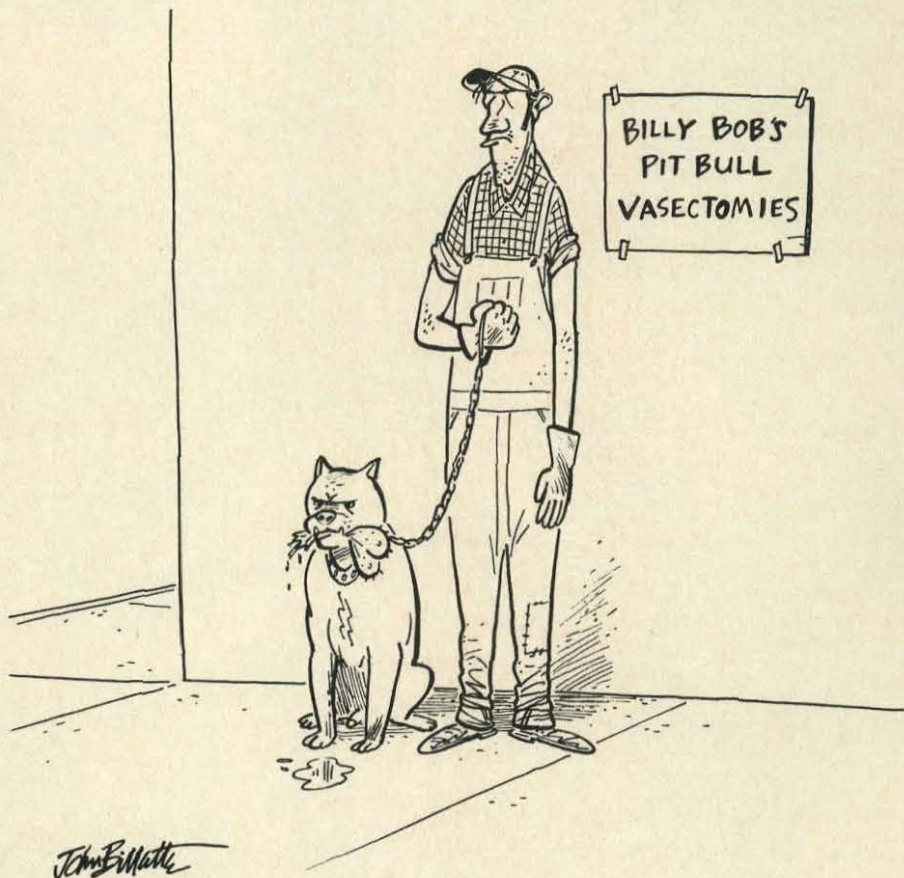

This wave of suspicious fatalities in the ultrasecret world of sophisticated weaponry has not gone unnoticed by the United States government. Late last fall, the American embassy in London publicly requested a full investigation by the British Ministry of Defense (MoD).

Members of British Parliament, such as Labour MP Doug Hoyle, copresident of the Manufacturing, Science & Finance Union, had been making similar requests for more than two years. The Thatcher government had refused to launch any sort of inquiry.

"How many more deaths before we get the government to give the answers?" Hoyle asks. "From a security point of view, surely both ourselves and the Americans ought to be looking into it."

The Pentagon refuses comment on the deaths. However, according to Reagan Trosley.

STAR WARS KILLINGS

"In the world of espionage, there is a saying: Twice is coincidence, but three times is enemy action."

Administration sources, "We cannot ignore it anymore."

Actually, British and American intelligence agencies are on the situation. When The Sunday Times in London published the details of 12 mysterious deaths last September, sources at the American embassy admitted being aware of at least ten additional victims whose names had already been sent to Washington. The sources added that the embassy had been monitoring reports of "the mysterious deaths" for two years.

English intelligence has suffered several damaging spy scandals in the 20th century. The CIA may suspect the deaths are an indication of security leaks, that Star Wars secrets are being sold to the Russians. Perhaps these scientists had been blackmailed into supplying classified data to Moscow and could no longer live with themselves. One or more may have stumbled onto an espionage ring and been silenced.

As NBC News London correspondent Henry Champ puts it, "In the world of espionage, there is a saying: Twice is coincidence, but three times is enemy action."

Where SDI is concerned, a tremendous amount is at stake.

In return for the Thatcher government's early support of the Star Wars program, the Reagan Administration promised a number of extremely lucrative SDI contracts to the British defense industry—hundreds of millions of U.S. dollars the struggling British economy can little afford to lose.

Britain traditionally has one of the finest defense industries in the world. Their annual overseas weapons sales amount to almost £250 billion. The publicity from a Star Wars spy scandal could seriously cut into the profits.

It would appear that only initial promises made to Prime Minister Thatcher hold the U.S. from cutting its losses and pulling out. A high-ranking American source was quoted in the Sunday Times saying, "If this had happened in Greece, Brazil, Spain or Argentina, we'd be all over them like a glove!"

The Thatcher government's biggest PR problem is that the scandal centers around Marconi Company Ltd., Britain's largest electronics-defense contractor. Seven Marconi scientists are among the dead.

Marconi, which employs 50,000 workers worldwide, is a subsidiary of Britain's General Electric Company (GEC). GEC managing director Lord Weinstock recently launched his own internal investigation.

Yet, the GEC and the Ministry of Defense still contend that the 22 deaths are coincidental. A Ministry of Defense spokesman claims to have found "no evidence of any sinister links between them."

However, an article in the British publication The Independent claims the incidence of suicide among Marconi scientists is twice the national average of mentally healthy individuals. Either Marconi is hiring abnormally unstable scientists or something is very wrong.

Two deaths brought the issue to light in the fall of 1986. Within weeks of each other, two London-based Marconi scientists were found dead 100 miles away, in Bristol. Both were involved in creating the software for a huge, computerized Star Wars simulator, the hub of Marconi's SDI program. Both had been working on the simulator just hours before their death. Like the others, neither had any apparent reason to kill himself.

Vimal Dajibhai was a 24-year-old electronics graduate who worked at Marconi Underwater Systems in Croxley Green. In August 1986 his crumpled body was found lying on the pavement 240 feet below the Clifton Suspension Bridge in Bristol.

An inquest was unable to determine whether Dajibhai had been pushed off the bridge or whether he had jumped. There had been no witnesses. The verdict was left open. Yet, authorities did their best to pin his death on suicide.

Police testified that Dajibhai had been suffering from depression, something his family and friends flatly denied. Dajibhai had absolutely no history of personal or emotional problems.

Police also claimed that the deceased had been drinking with a friend, Heyat Shah, shortly before his death, and that a bottle of wine and two used paper cups had been found in his car. Yet, forensic tests were never done on the auto, and those who knew Vimal, including Shah, say that he had never taken a drink of alcohol in his life.

Investigating journalists found discrepancies in other evidence. "A police report noted a puncture mark on Dajibhai's left buttock after his fall from the bridge," explains Tony Collins, who covered the story for Britain's Computer News magazine. "Apparently, this was the reason his funeral was halted seconds before the cremation was to take place."

"Members of the family were told that

Fuck the REVOLUTION!

Her Ivy League friends haven't heard from Abby since she went down to Nicaragua to pick coffee with the Sandinistas. A self-described socialist, the politically correct prude left Brown University on a crusade for her exploited sisterhood in the beleaguered country under attack by fascist pigs. What the frigid feminist didn't expect were miles of golden beaches—and hot Latin squack that brewed juices in her that she'd never felt before. Ever since, the nympho the natives call "Americano she-bitch" coaxes a different taco treat every afternoon down to her secluded beach spot for a mutual muff meal—in the name of liberation, of course. Amorous Abby has become expert at plying young, fresh Managua pussy—and teaching her brown sisters how to nibble U.S.-choice meat flaps. At least they're not eating bourgeois bush, Abby tells the envious men. And the revolution? Who has time for politics?

Officers maintained that Sharif killed himself because he'd been jilted—by a woman he hadn't seen in years.

the body was to be taken away for a second postmortem, to be done by a top home-office pathologist. That's not normal. Then, a few months later, police held a press conference and announced that it hadn't been a puncture mark after all, that it was a wound caused by a bone fragment.

"I find it very difficult to reconcile the initial coroner's report with what the police were saying a few months later," Collins contends.

Officials didn't fare any better with the second Bristol fatality. Police virtually tripped over themselves to come up with a motive for the apparent—and unusually violent—suicide of Ashaad Sharif.

Sharif was a 26-year-old computer analyst who worked at the Marconi Defense Systems headquarters in Stanmore, Middlesex. On October 28, 1986, he allegedly drove to a public park not far from where Dajibhai had died. He tied one end of a nylon cord around a tree and tied the other end around his neck. Then he got back into his Audi 80 automatic, stepped on the gas and sped off, decapitating himself.

Marconi initially claimed Sharif was only a junior employee, and that he'd had nothing to do with Star Wars. Co-workers stated otherwise. At the time of his death, Sharif was apparently about to be promoted. Also, Ashaad reportedly worked for a time in Vimal Dajibhai's section.

The inquest determined that Sharif's death was a suicide. Investigating officers maintained that the man had killed himself because he'd been jilted by an alleged lover. Ashaad hadn't seen the woman in three years.

"Sharif was said to have been depressed over a broken romance," Tony Collins explains. "But the woman police unofficially say was his lover contends that she was only his landlady when he was working for British Aerospace in Bristol. She's married, has three children, and she's deeply religious. The possibility of the two having an affair seems highly unlikely—especially since Sharif had a fiancée in Pakistan. His family told me that he was genuinely in love with her."

Police suddenly switched stories. They began to say that Sharif had been deeply in love with the woman he was engaged to, and that he'd decapitated himself because another woman was pressuring him to call off the marriage.

Authorities claimed to have found a taped message in Sharif's car "tantamount" to a suicide note. On it, officers said, he'd admitted to having had an affair, thus bringing shame on his family. Family members who've heard the tape say that it actually gave no indication of why Sharif might want to kill himself.

Sharif's family was told by the coroner that it was "not in their best interest" to attend the inquest.

"It's been almost impossible to get to information about the deaths that should be in the public domain," Tony Collins laments. "I've been given false names or incorrect spellings, or I've not been told where inquests have taken place. It's made it very difficult for me to try to track down the details in these cases."

In the Sharif case, two facts stand out: Ashaad had no history of depression, and there was absolutely no reason for him to be in Bristol.

A widely held theory among the establishment press is that the mysterious deaths are stress-related accidents or suicides. Such theories may not be far off the mark.

According to a high-ranking British-government official, for the past year and a half the Ministry of Defense has been secretly investigating Marconi on allegations of defense-contract fraud—overcharging the government, bribing officials. The extensive probe has required most of the MoD's investigative resources, conceivably reaching as far as Marconi's sub-contractors and into MoD research facilities such as the Royal Military College of Science and the Royal Air Force Research Center.

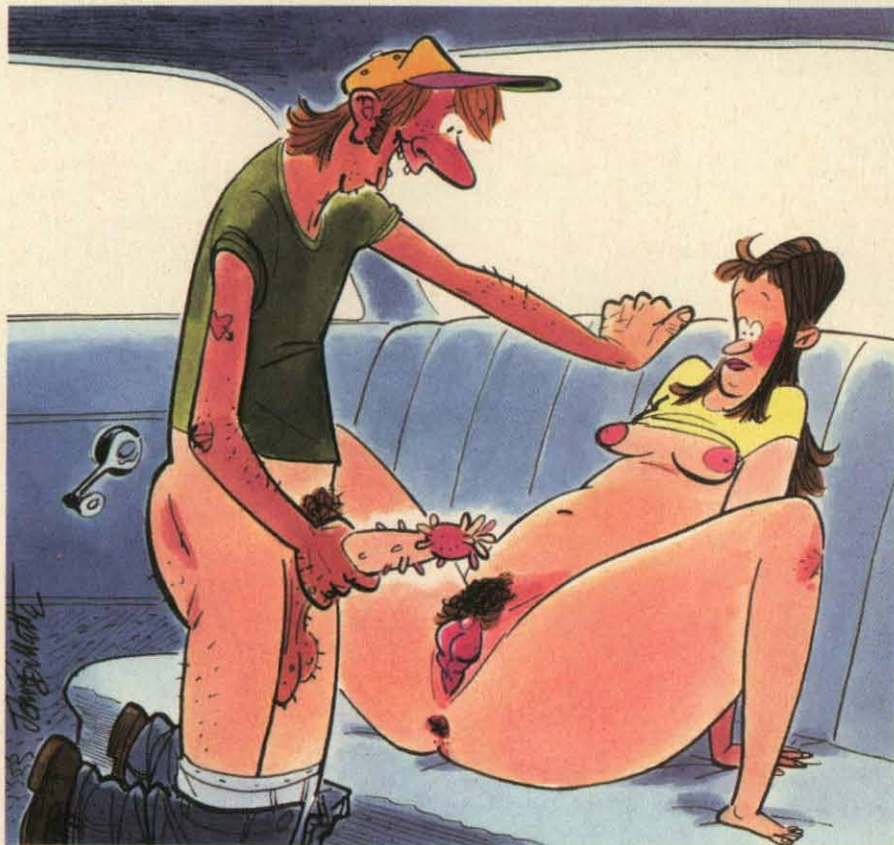

Almost all of the dead scientists were associated with one or more of these establishments.

If Marconi employees were being forced by management to perform or to cover up illegal activities, it may be that the stress did indeed get to them.

"In America, there are considerable incentives for people to blow the whistle if they're being asked to perform illegal acts like ripping off the government," a confidential source in Parliament explains. "However, in this country there have been perhaps 20 people who've blown the whistle, and none of them have ever worked again. They didn't receive any compensation. Here, you don't get any recognition. You get threatened with prosecution under the Official Secrets Act. They can fire you. Then they can take away your home and get you blacklisted.

"It's an impossible position to be placed in," the source adds. "It's quite conceiv-

One theory suggests that the Russians are using a death ray to drive the scientists to suicide.

able that these people could have killed themselves because they felt terribly ashamed of what they'd done. For that matter, some of the accidents or suicides could have been men who'd taken bribes but who couldn't face the embarrassment of public disclosure."

If Marconi was systematically defrauding the government for millions of pounds each year, perhaps an employee stumbled upon incriminating evidence and had to be done away with. It would be easy enough to make it look like an accident.

Consider the peculiar death of Peter Peapell, found dead beneath his car in the garage of his Oxfordshire home. Peapell, 46, worked for the Royal Military College of Science, a world authority on communications technology, electronics surveillance and target detection. Peapell was an expert at using computers to process signals emitted by metals. His work reportedly included testing titanium for its resistance to explosives.

On the night of February 22, 1987, Peapell spent an enjoyable evening out with his wife, Maureen, and their friends. When they returned home, Maureen went straight to bed, leaving Peter to put the car away.

When Maureen woke up the next morning, she discovered that Peter had not come to bed. She went looking for him. When she reached the garage, she noticed that the door was closed. Yet she could hear the car's engine running.

She found her husband lying on his back beneath the car, his mouth directly below the tail pipe. She pulled him into the open air, but he was already dead.

Initially, Maureen thought her husband's death an accident. She presumed he'd gotten under the car to investigate a knocking he'd heard driving home the night before, and that he'd gotten stuck. But the light fixture in the garage was broken, and Peter hadn't been carrying a flashlight.

Police had their own suspicions. A constable the same height and weight as Peter Peapell found it impossible to crawl under the car when the garage door was closed. He also found it impossible to close the door once he was under the car.

Carbon deposits from the inside of the garage door showed that the engine had been running only a short time. Yet, Mrs. Peapell had found the body almost seven hours after she'd gone to bed.

The coroner's inquest could not determine whether the death was a homicide, a suicide or an accident. According to Maureen Peapell, Peter had no reason to kill himself. They had no marital or financial problems. Peter loved his job. He'd just received a sizable raise, and according to colleagues, he'd exhibited "absolutely no signs of stress."

We may never know what is killing these scientists. Everyone has a theory.

The National Forum Foundation, a conservative Washington, D.C., think tank, believes the deaths are the work of European-based, left-wing terrorists, such as those who took credit for gunning down a West German bureaucrat who'd negotiated Star Wars contracts. The group also claims the July 1986 bombing death of a research director from the Siemens Company—a high-tech, West German electronics firm. They have yet to take credit for any of the scientists.

A more outrageous theory suggests that the Russians have developed an electromagnetic "death ray," with which they're driving the British scientists to suicide. A supermarket tabloid contends the ultrathin waves emitted by the device interfere with a person's brain waves, causing violent mood shifts, including suicidal depression.

The genius of such a weapon is that the victim does all the dirty work and takes all the blame. Yet, if the Soviets have actually developed such a weapon, why waste it on 22 British defense workers?

Are the scientists victims of a corrupt defense industry? Have they been espionage pawns? Are the deaths nothing more than an extraordinary coincidence? Guess.

DOSSIER OF DEATH

Auto accident—Professor Keith Bowden, 45, computer scientist, Essex University. In March 1982 Bowden's car plunged off a bridge, into an abandoned rail yard. His death was listed as an accident.

Missing person—Lieutenant Colonel Anthony Godley, 49, defense expert, head of work-study unit at the Royal Military College of Science. Godley disappeared in April 1983. His father bequeathed him more than £60,000, with the proviso that he claim it by 1987. He never showed up and is presumed dead.

Shotgun blast—Roger Hill, 49, radar designer and draftsman, Marconi. In March 1985 Hill allegedly killed himself with a shotgun at the family home.

Death leap—Jonathan Walsh, 29, digital-communications expert assigned to British Telecom's secret Martlesham Heath research facility (and to GEC, Marconi's parent firm). In November 1985 Walsh allegedly fell from his hotel room while working on a British Telecom project in Abidjan, Ivory Coast (Africa). He had expressed a fear for his life. Verdict: Still in question.

In January 1987 Pugh was found wrapped head-to-toe in rope. Verdict: A sexual experiment gone awry.

Death leap—Vimal Dajibhai, 24, computer-software engineer (worked on guidance system for Tigerfish torpedo), Marconi Underwater Systems. In August 1986 Dajibhai's crumpled remains were found 240 feet below the Clifton suspension bridge in Bristol. The death has not been listed as a suicide.

Decapitation—Ashaad Sharif, 26, computer analyst, Marconi Defense Systems. In October 1986, in Bristol, Sharif allegedly tied one end of a rope around a tree and the other end around his neck, then drove off in his car at a high speed. Verdict: Suicide.

Suffocation—Richard Pugh, computer consultant for the Ministry of Defense. In January 1987 Pugh was found dead, wrapped head-to-toe in rope that was tied four times around his neck. The coroner listed his death as an accident due to a sexual experiment gone awry.

Asphyxiation—John Brittan, Ministry of Defense tank batteries expert, Royal Military College of Science. In January 1987 Brittan was found dead in a parked car in his garage. The engine was still running. Verdict: Accidental death.

Drug overdose—Victor Moore, 46, design engineer, Marconi Space Systems. In February 1987 Moore was found dead of a drug overdose. His death is listed as a suicide.

Asphyxiation—Peter Peapell, 46, scientist, Royal Military College of Science. In February 1987 Peapell was found dead beneath his car, his face near the tail pipe, in the garage of his Oxfordshire home. Death was due to carbon-monoxide poisoning, although tests showed that the engine had been running only a short time. Foul play has not been ruled out.

Asphyxiation—Edwin Skeels, 43, engineer, Marconi. In February 1987 Skeels was found dead in his car, a victim of carbon-monoxide poisoning. A hose led from the exhaust pipe. His death is listed as a suicide.

Auto accident—David Sands, satellite projects manager, Easams (a Marconi sister company). Although up for a promotion, in March 1987 Sands drove a car filled with gasoline cans into the brick wall of an abandoned cafe. He was killed instantly. Foul play has not been ruled out.

Auto accident—Stuart Gooding, 23, postgraduate research student, Royal Military College of Science. In April 1987 Gooding died in a mysterious car wreck in Cyprus while the College was holding military exercises on the island. Verdict: Accidental death.

Auto accident—George Kountis, experienced systems analyst at British Polytechnic. In April 1987 Kountis drowned after his BMW plunged into the Mersey River in Liverpool. His death is listed as a misadventure.

Suffocation—Mark Wisner, 24, software engineer at Ministry of Defense experimental station for combat aircraft. In April 1987 Wisner was found dead in his home with a plastic bag over his head. At the inquest, his death was ruled an accident due to a sexual experiment gone awry.

Auto accident—Michael Baker, 22, digital-communications expert, Plessey Defense Systems. In May 1987 Baker's BMW crashed through a road barrier, killing the driver. Verdict: Misadventure.

Heart attack—Frank Jennings, 60, electronic-weapons engineer for Plessey. In June 1987 Jennings allegedly dropped dead of a heart attack. No inquest was held.

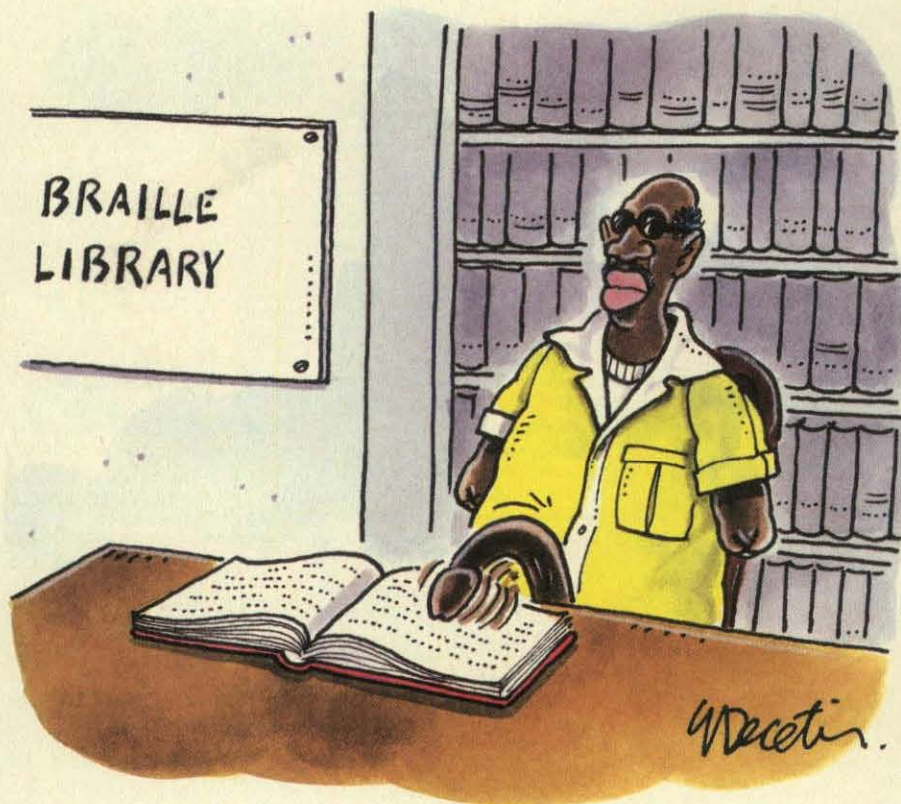

Death leap—Russel Smith, 23, lab technician at the Atomic Energy Research Establishment. In January 1988 Smith's mangled body was found halfway down a cliff in Cornwall. Verdict: Suicide.

Asphyxiation—Trevor Knight, 52, computer engineer, Marconi Space and Defense Systems. In March 1988 Knight was found dead in his car, asphyxiated by fumes from a hose attached to the tail pipe. The death was ruled a suicide.

Electrocution—John Ferry, 60, assistant marketing director for Marconi. In August 1988 Ferry was found dead in a company-owned apartment, the stripped leads of an electrical cord in his mouth. Foul play has not been ruled out.

Electrocution—Alistair Beckham, 50, software engineer, Plessey. In August 1988 Beckham's lifeless body was found in the garden shed behind his house. Bare wires, which ran to a live main, were wrapped around his chest. No suicide note was found, and police have not ruled out foul play.

Asphyxiation—Andrew Hall, 33, engineering manager, British Aerospace. In September 1988 Hall was found dead in his car, asphyxiated by fumes from a hose that was attached to the tail pipe. Friends said he was well liked, had everything to live for. Verdict: Suicide.

PASS THE SAUCE

I'm a happily married man with two young children, so naturally, I never thought I'd have a story for HUSTLER magazine. But last summer, at my 20th college reunion, I had an unusual experience that I feel obligated to share with other readers.

An old friend, Judy, cornered me at the reception. Judy was a woman I'd gone through high school and college with. Unlike some of our other classmates, I thought that she had become more beautiful than ever. She was a small woman, with a slim waist, wide hips and big breasts. In her black silk evening gown, she was a knockout, and I told her so. She said that I didn't look too bad myself, and although I suspected that she was merely flattering me, I smiled just the same.

"I had a huge crush on you," Judy began, "and I've never been able to forget you. Couldn't we go somewhere for a long talk?"

I was easy to convince, especially with my wife home taking care of the kids. Outside, the moon illuminated the parking lot of the hotel with a silver light, and we walked along, talking easily. Before I knew it, we were in the trees behind the swimming pool. Judy was on me at once. I tried to slip my hand up her dress and down over her ass, but my advance was blocked by the tightest girdle I've ever encountered.

"If you can get my girdle off, I'll let you fuck me," Judy said teasingly.

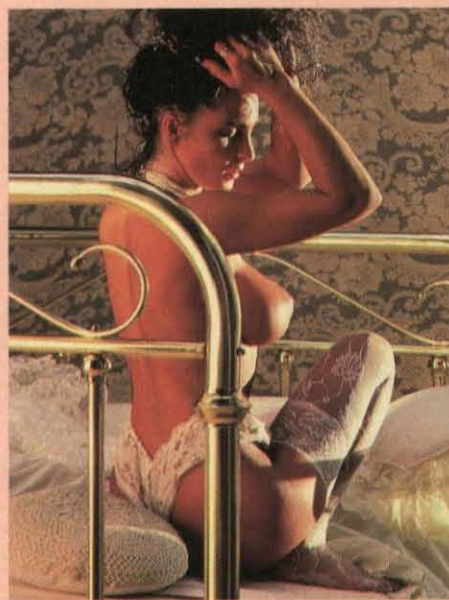

As I attacked the thing, she deftly dropped my trousers to the ground and went to work, kneading my balls with one hand, stroking my cock with the other.

Now I had two struggles on my hands: the damn girdle—which I'd barely budged—and trying to restrain my orgasm, which was ready to budge on its own. I could feel it rising in the barrel of my cock, and it was obviously a magnum load. Desperate now, my hand sought other routes to the treasure I could feel beneath the tight elastic. The pussy juice was seeping through her girdle now. It was maddening to feel it on my fingers and to smell the rich, sweet bouquet that wafted up from Judy's swollen cunt. She jerked hard and fast, but I had control now, and finally she stopped in disgust.

"You're a tough one, aren't you?" she asked.

My high-school sweetheart reached into her purse and told me to close my eyes. I had the girdle halfway off now, and if she would only cooperate, everything would be fine. Then I felt her smearing Vaseline on my cock and up around my asshole. She tugged away confidently now, and I gritted my teeth, holding on for dear life.

"I want to fuck you," I said. But it was no good. Slowly but surely her free hand slipped upward behind my ass as the other hand pretended to be a vagina in heat. Then Judy's finger probed my asshole and slipped inside, exploring the confines of my browneye. The swelling in my guts was intolerable now. Judy smiled lecherously in the moonlight.

"You're a big boy, aren't you?" she asked. "You can hold it, can't you? You won't do anything embarrassing?"

The first bolt of hot jism seemed to shoot from deep inside me, and I knew without caring that it was traveling fast, far and splattering on her evening gown. I felt her sliding her finger in and out of my asshole as my throbbing cock squeezed off shot after shot. Desperately I tried to save part of my load, but Judy was insistent.

"Oh, no," she gasped. "What a bad boy! You might as well let it all go now. What a bad baby!"

We looked at each other and laughed at our appearance. Judy's evening gown was pulled up around the waist, her girdle clung to her thighs, and the elegant gown was splattered with my semen from breast to belly button. My tuxedo slacks hung around my ankles, and my once-proud erection now drooped.

Suddenly Judy's smile faded. "My gown is ruined," she complained.

"No, it's not," I said. Working quickly with my tongue, I lapped my salty sauce from the silk. Then embracing again and kissing, I opened my mouth to Judy, who slurped and swallowed the sweet semen from my tongue.

We laughed and hitched up our clothes, then returned to the hotel, with its gala reception, its punch bowl and its hors d'oeuvres. All the doctors and politicians were graying and proper now, and not a classmate, husband or wife could ever know that jism tingled like champagne in our throats. Judy and I were already planning the next reunion of the class of '68. —T. W. N.

THE GIRL CAN'T HELP IT

It all started quite by chance. First, I must explain that I love my wife June very much—even more so after what has taken place during the past six earth-shattering months.

As I said before, it all started by chance. We were in a warm and tingling embrace, but June had the curse. At the height of our breathless encounter I asked if she'd give me head. Her eyes looked at me with astonishment as I related what I desired. Then I lay back completely naked on the bed. My cock was standing at full attention.

It got to where June needed a morning cum pick-me-up. She became totally insatiable, a cumaholic.

June, at my request, dutifully removed her clothes and on my suggestion peeled back the head of my stiffened cock. Slowly but lovingly she slipped her tongue up and down its length. As I had asked her, she took my prick in her wet, warm mouth, and while I stroked her breasts, she sucked. June looked up to ask if she was doing it right. Her eyes opened wide in surprise as the hot cum filled her mouth. After the initial gulp she smiled up at me glowingly.

For my wife it was love at first taste. She continued to take hot spurt after hot spurt, all the while smiling gloriously. Even when I lay back completely exhausted, June eagerly lapped the remaining drops of overflow. She finally released me and lay back on the bed. With glistening lips she told me how much she had enjoyed her first time swallowing. Little did I realize that she had become an instant cumaholic, a fact that showed itself the following day. She had become cursed with the thirst and inquired solicitously if I would like to make love. So it was off with our clothes again and on to the bed. This time she needed no coaching.

June literally grabbed my dick. She advanced beyond the previous day's instructions by first taking one testicle and then the other into her mouth. June then skinned back my throbbing peter and skimmed the head with moistened lips, giving my throbbing cock tiny butterfly kisses. In the excitement I arched my back. June looked me full in the face and started to suck on my bursting purple-headed prick. A moment later I came, flooding her mouth, whereupon she took her eyes from mine and hungrily slurped my savory sperm.

After the first burst she sipped it like a fine wine, sloshing the jizz between and around her teeth and gums. June mouth-vacuumed the entire length of my prick to soak up any drops that might have escaped. For both of us it was a most rewarding mouth-to-prick experience.

The following day June commented wistfully, "I just can't resist you and your liquid caviar. You have to give it to me on a daily basis now, for it's the finest ambrosia I've ever tasted. Your cum is my dream tonic. I just can't get enough!"

So it became a daily routine. Before dinner each night I'd shower and hasten to bed, where my sexy, kinky wife would be awaiting me. June would perform the ritual of arousing me with her lips and tongue, then down my steaming chowder. Licking her lips she would squeeze out any and all remaining drops from my cock. June said it was like tasting heaven, and I certainly enjoyed it.

But then it got to the point where she needed a morning cum pick-me-up. June became totally insatiable. Her thirst was more than I could physically handle. Fortunately, my brother Bob was living with us. He gladly agreed to be a morning male surrogate. Each morning, about 15 minutes before we rose, I'd call him into our bedroom. Then Bob would slide in beside us and provide June with her morning dose.

You may wonder why I wasn't jealous. I was, but seeing her slop over my brother's prick, seeing it harden and watching the pleasure on June's face as he pulsed forth made my cock rock-hard. On such mornings June gratefully welcomed a double shot. But even so, she wanted more.

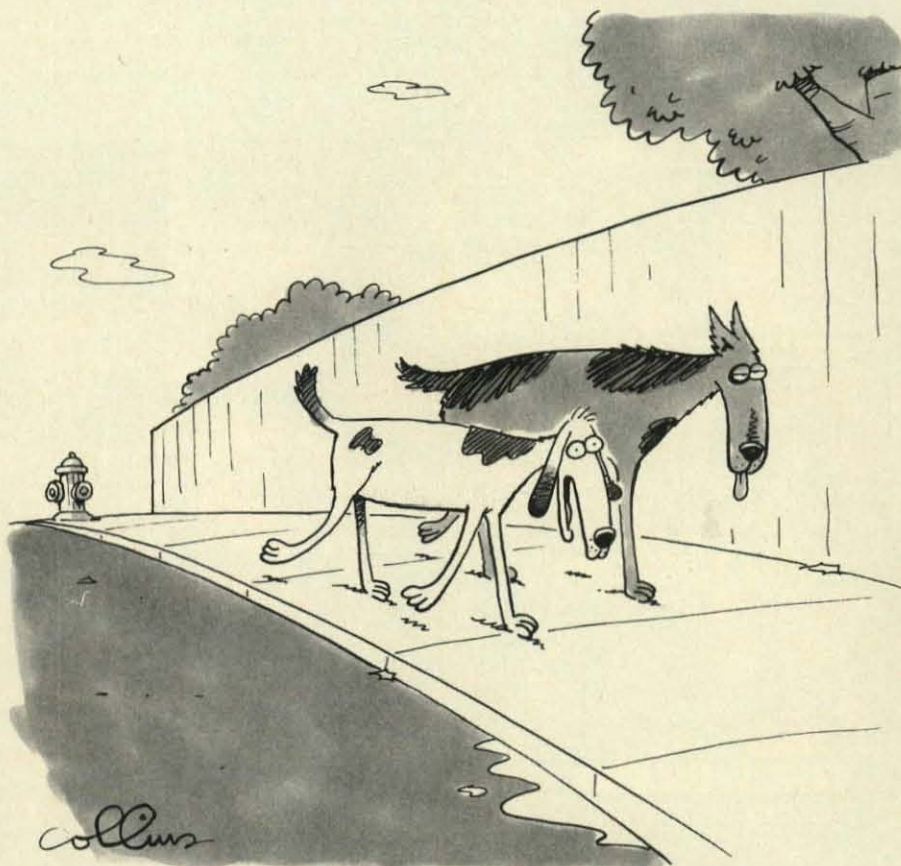

Then an episode occurred that told me in unmistakable terms that my woman had gone too far.

In our apartment complex there's a muscular, good-looking, young janitor. One day I came home early. When I went to get my tennis racket from the bedroom closet, I saw him with a horse-size erection shoved into June's mouth as she happily sucked him off. He was truly a stud with enough cum to spare, since I noted June was busy shoving the overflow back between her lips.

Unquestionably, June is a full-blown cumaholic. What am I going to do about it? Nothing! She has found an ever-flowing fountain of cum. Now my brother and I can get some rest. We know we'll always have tits to play with, a pussy to make glisten and an ever-ready warm and sensuous mouth. Could anyone ask for more?

experience. The woman has the commitment from a man she's always wanted. He wants her to have his baby. At last, she knows that he loves her. The presence of love almost always heightens a woman's sexual arousal. The undeniable commitment of her lover unleashes any inhibitions; now she can give herself like she has never given herself before.

For a man, this is the ultimate sexual experience. The old crocodile brain is getting what it wants—a chance to squirt those chromosomes into any fertile, febrile member of the opposite sex. The ego gets to beget itself on a beauty who has so succumbed to his charms that she is willing to carry his baby for nine months. Not only does a man get his rocks off; he foists himself on the future by genetic proxy. And the pleasure-principled id doesn't have to worry about whether or not he's going to get her pregnant—that's what he's here for: au naturel, barebacked, full-tilt, no-holds-barred heterosexual S-E-X the way it was meant to be, sex that even the Pope could get behind. There is much to be said for doing it on purpose.

However, much of the conventional wisdom concerning pregnancy and how to achieve it has disappeared from common parlance. Here are a few tips that Mom knew and we never thought we'd need: 1) A woman is only fertile when she is ovulating. If a woman has a 31-day menstrual cycle, she is most likely to be ovulating between Days 15 and 19 after the end of her most recent period. If she has a 28-day cycle, the days she is most likely to be ovulating are Days 11 through 15. She will only be ovulating one of those days, and these five-day intervals are only approximations. Each woman's cycle is slightly different, and some women's cycles change from period to period. Most doctors suggest that a woman stop using the birth-control pill three months before trying to get pregnant. This elapsed time allows all the artificial hormones to be cleared from her system, while her natural menstrual patterns become evident again.

When it occurs, some women can actually feel ovulation as a slight cramping. Most women cannot. A basal thermometer may be used to determine the moment in a woman's menstrual cycle when she is ovulating and when conditions are most receptive for impregnation.

2) The higher a man's sperm count is at each coupling, the better the chances are that he will impregnate his partner. In other words, having sex every day of the month will not necessarily guarantee that a woman will get pregnant. It may be helpful if you "save up" during the month and only have sex on those days when the woman is most likely to be fertile.

Keep your balls cool. Heat inactivates sperm cells. Avoid tight-fitting clothes, steam baths and saunas.

3) Gravity plays a small role in the successful passage of the sperm into the uterus. A woman may want to raise her vagina and lower her womb by propping up her buttocks on a pillow during sex. This will allow deeper penetration and also give the sperm a downhill journey. She should also remain in a reclining position for at least a half hour after sex.

4) Relaxation is the key in this as in all sexual activities. Performance pressure and fertility anxiety reduce the chances of becoming pregnant. Don't announce to friends and relatives that you are "trying to get pregnant." If it doesn't happen within a few weeks, you will be dogged with recurrent questions: "Is she pregnant yet?" "Did it work?" "Don't you remember how to do it?" Pregnancy doesn't happen just because you want it to. It may take only a month after you abandon birth control, or it may take a year or more. The best advice is for a couple to just do what comes naturally: to follow their own rhythms of desire, to play during this act of human creation and to enjoy the sensuality of the experience.

Mommies and Daddies Do It

Once a woman is pregnant, incredible physical changes begin to occur. Some of these are definitely erotic, while others are very unerotic. When the sperm and egg unite inside the womb, there is an immediate hormonal upheaval. Some women experience this as very nearly a manic-depressive psychological state. Most women are simply more susceptible to emotional mood swings. They will be sensitive, sometimes tearful, more difficult to approach sexually than usual.

During the first three months of pregnancy more than half of all women experience some sort of nausea commonly called morning sickness. Feeling queasy is not conducive to acting sexy. Vomit is not an aphrodisiac.

After the first trimester (three months), the majority of pregnant women feel fine. In fact, many even describe this time in their lives as the healthiest they have ever experienced. Plus, they look good. A woman who never had more than a handful of breast grows fine, full tits with round, firm nipples. The hips broaden invitingly. Her belly gently rounds outward. Many women are turned on by their own sudden voluptuousness. They embrace their femininity and let that lush, fertile feeling spill over onto the men who helped them realize their full feminine potential. Have sex often now, while you can.

After the sixth month, almost all sex will have to be consummated in some variation of doggy-style.

The father feels protective, and "gentle" is the byword for sex with pregnant women. One of the best ways to initiate sex is to suggest that you apply the cocoa-butter creams that she must spread all over her breasts and abdomen to help prevent stretch marks. Her nipples will be tender, so be careful. Back- and foot-rubbing are also good places to start. You can rub uglies in just about any position you like until her belly protrudes too much for you to lie on top of it comfortably. She may be sensitive to that particular pressure even before she is physically "showing."

After the sixth month, women often discover a sensuous pleasure in their fecundity when they actually feel life nudging about inside their bodies. By this time, almost all sex will have to be consummated from the rear in some variation of what is generally called doggy-style. Some women find that even being on their hands and knees is uncomfortable. In that case, have her lie on her side, then raise and bend the knee of the leg that is uppermost. Take it slow and easy. The male has to assume most of the movement at this point. Her belly will be taut as a drumhead, and sexual activity often sets the baby inside her in motion, turning, stretching, punching Daddy. At this point the simple act a man and woman have performed together can take on awesome dimensions. You have created new life, and you feel like no one has done it before—at least not as well as you have. This is a giddy, amorous, lusty feeling. Fuck like Frankenstein's monster and his bride should have fucked if they'd only had the brains to think of it.

There is some medical speculation that a woman's orgasm is actually good for the baby, since it concentrates blood flow in the organs which surround the unborn child. There is no doubt that sex is a good relief for tension, and the mother will need to blow off a little steam at this point, incubation being tedious work.

During the last month or six weeks of pregnancy, the obstetrician will prescribe no sex for the expectant mother. He does not in fact mean no sex. He just means no sex involving penetration of the vagina, since the cervix is lowered and sensitive and may be disrupted by the insertion of the penis. He does not mean that a couple cannot satisfy each other orally. Oral sex is acceptable. Performing cunnilingus in the usual fashion may be difficult because the baby will be where the man usually puts his nose. If you don't like holding your breath, try the 69 position.

When the baby is near term, it is unbelievable how full of child a woman can be. The size of what was her waist will have almost doubled. She will be lethargic, very uncomfortable and not too interested in physical activity of any kind, including sex. This is nature's way of preparing women to have their babies. Giving birth hurts—a lot—that's why even in euphemism they call it "labor." You've got to want to do it, and by the end of her pregnancy a woman just wants to get that kid out of there no matter what it takes.

Most doctors suggest refraining from sex for a month to six weeks after the baby is born. A woman's vagina takes a beating during birth. No part of a man's anatomy that could conceivably be inserted into a vagina is as large as that baby's head when it emerges. The womb, which is normally about the size of a few finger joints, has expanded to hold six to eight pounds of baby, a few pounds of placenta and umbilical cord, and about a half a gallon of amniotic fluid. It needs a rest. Be smart and give it one.

Remember that it is very easy for a woman to get pregnant in the months immediately after she has given birth. Breast-feeding sometimes will suspend a woman's ovulation, but there is no guarantee that this will happen. If the woman uses a diaphragm for birth control, she should be measured for a new one. The old one won't fit any longer.

Although the doctor has not ruled out oral sex for the six weeks after the baby is born, a couple is lucky if they even get the fleeting sexual fantasy during that time. The demands of the newborn, the lack of sleep and the difficulties of adjustment to being a family generally nullify any chance to get physical with your partner. To put it bluntly, you will be just too damn tired to get it up.

But this is not a permanent situation. Sooner or later the two of you will get a handle on the baby stuff, and then—look out. After abstaining for over two months, the desire to get into each other's pants can be overwhelming. You'll have to do it more than once. Give the utmost consideration to hiring your first baby-sitter to stay with the kid while you and the wife go rent a motel room for the day.

"Pardon me, miss. How would you like to become a famous movie star?"

This is a video bonanza you can't pass up. Here's a chance to own the best of the x-rated box office hits! Check these sizzling titles and make your selections... FAST!

VC-1 MIDNIGHT HEAT. All the critics agree: "May be the most daring porn film ever made". "The most controversial adult film of the decade". Stars Jamie Gillis, Champagne, Sue Nero, etc. Explosive!

VC-2 THE NEW YORK CITY WOMAN. In this feature, John C. Holmes and his 14" cock takes on all comers including Georgina Spelvin, C. J. Laing, and a collection of fresh new talent. Holmes at his best!

VC-3 PORNO SCREEN TESTS. A red-hot sexual fire cracker that takes you to bed with it's flesh hungry stars! Now, you get a closer look than the camera and the chance to select tomorrow's sex stars. Features Sissy Pirjo-Leena, Ron Jeremy and Jennifer West. A scorcher!

VC-4 PRINCESS SEKA. Seka is truly the princess of erotic elegance as she teams up with the sultry Serena in this XXX-rated epic. Serena's boyfriend discovers that Seka's blue blood runs hot as he puts her through her passionate paces, setting the stage for this film's twist ending!

VC-5 IN LOVE. "This film is the state-of-the-erotic-art... far more important than 'Deep Throat' ever was... This is the easiest 100 points I've given to any film", Al Goldstein. Also got Hustler's highest rating plus best actress award for Kelly Nicoles. A very sexy movie!

VC-6 DEVIL IN MISS JONES Part 2. "Super-sequel! Hilarious. Superlative performance. One of the very best ever", Hustler. Justine Jones wastes no time in raising Hell to make amends for her 10 years without sex in what Screw magazine calls "Absolutely the best erotic film of all time". Georgina Spelvin plus an all star cast! "Best film of the year" award!

VC-7 FEELINGS. A girl turns to modeling to pay off her boyfriend's huge debt, and ends up in the porno movie biz. He loses her to a world of deviation and she loves every minute of it! Stars Leslie Bovee, Jamie Gillis and Richard Bolla.

VC-8 VIRGIN AND THE LOVER. A shy artist is lured into the world of sex by a beautiful seductress and we discover again... the first time is always the best! Stars Jennifer Wells, Eric Edwards, Mark Stevens, etc. A blockbuster!

VC-9 COSMOPOLITAN GIRLS. Hyperactive libidos lead three career women on a sexual rampage. Here's a hot and torrid film that sizzles right off the screen. Introducing Tamara Lynne & Miranda Stevens. Stars Lisa Be, Anna Turner and Rick Iverson.

VC-10 SEXCAPADES. A porn director makes a hardcore flick... in his own house. His wife catches him getting into his own action. What a way to make a living! Got Hustler's highest rating. An all star cast!

"If you guys will, we will," demurs the VCA man. "You do it first; we'll do it then."

The innovation of most interest to porn viewers is fresh fish in the talent pool. The CES is a place to flash future gash. Aside from Foxy Video's mostly overlooked Lisa Lamborghini, Eros Entertainment turns out Raven Richards, a high-and-mighty chested jade who starts out signing autographs shyly, but soon whips her felt tip around like a tried-and-true pro. Inveterate lip-licker Julianne James garners some initial exposure as Vivid's new Brat. Tisa/Vanity stands tall and fed up for Video Exclusives. Marty Rothstein of New York's Model Distributors squires his new star, Stella, a platinum blonde in a green dress. Victoria Paris is a pair to watch, her Angela Baron boobs matched with a Blondi B. voice. But the new ass most old faces long to support is, of course, Tori Welles.

Tori twitches her haunches into the bathroom.

"Whaddaya think she's doing in there?"

"Launching a fleet of corn schooners."

"I'd like to pick out the whole kernels and make succotash."

The four-day event's climax occurs on the third night, Monday, at the Adult Video

News awards. The Adult Video News has been described as a magazine "with its nose so far up the industry's ass, they can smell what it had for lunch."

The ceremony itself is every bit as tedious as these things have the potential to be. John Leslie opens the show by singing and playing harmonica with a surprisingly competent Chicago-style blues band of white guys, following which, the ceremony's highlights can be summed up as: 1) The truly stunning costumes of all porn talent present—more sequins have never been gathered together at one time in Las Vegas history. 2) Tori Welles, in a white dress, looking somewhat more than virginal. 3) A fat smut-studio exec huffs to the stage to accept an award for Ghostess With the Mostess's orgy seance scene. "Were you in the orgy?" quips presenter Megan Leigh. 4) Samantha Strong, last year's starlet of the year, presents the award for 1989: "And I hope this year's winner will follow in my footsteps." 5) Aja, one of few starlets capable of not only following in Strong's footsteps, but of forging on where Strong has yet to tread, traipses forward to accept the award. A Greek who owns a newsstand and three scum shops down in Florida leans conspiratorially across the table. "I'll let you in on an inside scoop," he sibilates. "You'll never see Aja without those gloves. You know why?" 5) "What a night for diarrhea," spouts Jerry Butler, onstage to present an award for best marketing campaign. "What the fuck kind of award is this?" 6) Paul "Tobias" Thomas, incorrigible welsher of cab fares, upon being inducted to the AVN hall of fame: "My greatest joy is not being inducted into the hall of fame the same year as Jerry Butler." 7) The band plays a snippet of the Leave It to Beaver theme between awards. 8) Barbara Dare's wraparound black-leather dress reveals the sides, bottoms and tops of her self-elevated chest dumplings. 9) John Leslie's Catwoman wins the awards for best script, best director, best videography, best video editing and best video feature, but loses best actress to Ona Zee.

On Tuesday it's all over but the going home. Four geeks with cameras bustle into the Sahara lobby, headed for the Space Center and one last day's photographing. They pass right by Fallon in her street clothes, never suspecting she is the star of the spritzing gash.

The arena is relatively quiet. Promotional employees sip slow cups of coffee. The circus closes early today, at four, and moves out of town.

Aja comes in at 10:40, her starlet-of-the-year trophy cradled in her gloved arms, clutched to her chest. It's another working morning, but thank God only half a day. 🍌

ENLARGE YOUR PENIS TO IT'S MAXIMUM! HAVE ERECT MEASUREMENTS OF 9, 10, EVEN 12 FULL INCHES!

The MATRIX is the ONLY PENIS
DEVELOPER you will ever need!

Is the size of your penis bringing you down? Sure, the medical authorities say the size doesn't count; but as long as women have a need to be filled, they will demand the full measure of devotion. And no amount of psychological reassurance will fill the gap between expectation and reality.

Now, with a simple device you can follow in the footsteps of thousands of men who have proven that there is a way to INCREASE PENIS SIZE and THICKNESS! The device is called the MATRIX ELECTRIC VACUUM ENLARGER. A safe and proven natural way to add inches to penis length and thickness. With the MATRIX, you will see yourself grow to dimensions you never thought possible.

HOW CAN THE MATRIX ELECTRIC VACUUM ENLARGER INCREASE PENIS LENGTH & THICKNESS?

Your erection is caused by blood flowing into hollow caverns inside your penis. The caverns fill with blood and your penis grows in size and thickness and becomes stiffer and stiffer until the caverns are filled with all the blood they can hold. BUT, IF YOU INCREASE THE CAPACITY OF THE CAVERNS BY MAKING THEM BIGGER, THEY HOLD MORE BLOOD and you have a correspondingly longer, thicker penis. Regular use of the MATRIX gently urges the caverns to expand... expand... expand. You'll see the astonishing results the first time you use your MATRIX. Your penis will grow inside the clear, picture window sleeve. Immediately you'll see just how really BIG... how really FAT... how LONG... how HARD and STIFF your own penis can get! And after regular sessions with the MATRIX you'll probably find as do most men that these size gains don't go away! They become a part of you to thrill and excite her!

UNITS SOLD!

THE MATRIX IS SIMPLY THE MOST POWERFUL ENLARGEMENT SYSTEM YOU CAN PURCHASE ANYWHERE! AT ANY PRICE!

This powerful, totally electric unit (U.L. approved) is equipped to plug into any wall outlet to give you continuous, even sucking power until you shut it off! Unlike noisy electric vacuum enlargers costing upwards of $100 — the MATRIX is "quite as a whisper". This sophisticated instrument is by far the state of the art in penis enhancing machinery. It has taken time, money and first-class engineering to produce what many have called the "Rolls Royce" of vacuum enlargers. The MATRIX is a finely crafted precision instrument designed to create the vacuum needed to make the male organ LONG and THICKER. If you are truly serious about penis enlargement — the MATRIX will do the job for you!

July 1989 15th Anniversary Collector's Issue on sale May 23, 1989

CELEBRATE WITH OUR HOTTEST HONEYS

America's Magazine—which gives you pink, honest reporting, hard-hitting humor and more surprises than America bargains for—celebrates its 15th Birthday with a giant collector's edition featuring some of the most sizzling photo-spreads ever published! For all our minority-minded readers, we answer that long-standing request for a darker flavor of Honey in our centerfold. A pair of pouty pink-lipped poonsters share their labia-laving lust in a lesbo layout. A duo of real-life dirty dancers perform their dong-and-pussy show for HUSTLER's horny cameras. Then the party moves poolside for a blond babe's wanton exposure of cooze lips you'll never forget. Icing the carnal cake is a special Beaver Hunt-winner pictorial with a HUSTLER-reading raunchette who loves to flash her flaps. There's more flesh here than you can shake your stick at! But go ahead and try.

THE LATEST FROM LARRY

Readers keep asking why they don't hear more from their favorite Beaver Boss, so Larry Flynt has consented to open up on all his favorite subjects—pussy pictures, hypocrites, humor, politics, social issues and the future of your favorite magazine. The Main Man of Pink reviews the trials and triumphs of Larry Flynt, accompanied by a retrospective of the many high points of HUSTLER history.

BY THE SKIN OF HIS NOSE

For an in-depth report on the skinhead phenomenon, turn to the magazine that gives you no-holds-barred reporting. HUSTLER's Adam Parfrey went deep inside this latest mutation of hate groups to show what they are actually up to, as well as to get the true blow-by-blow of how that obnoxious TV jackass got his face fixed.

FALLOUT OVER NUCLEAR AIDS THEORY

One of the leading scientists involved in the development of our nuclear arsenal contends that the effects of AIDS and radiation are too similar not to look for a connection. His unpopular—but highly plausible—theory gets its first serious exposure in Ron Chepesiuk's report for the highly acclaimed AIDSWatch column.

SOME LIKE IT ROUGH

At a time when there is much hype over imagined links between sex and violence, Sex Play takes a serious look at women who crave some intimate rough-and-tumble. Only HUSTLER dares confront the myths and misinformation with factual explorations of society's taboos.

BONUS BONERS & BONEHEADS

You'll get a kick or a hard dick out of all the extras in our 15th Anniversary Issue, along with all the regular features—Bits & Pieces, Erotic Entertainment, Hot Letters, Beaver Hunt and the world's most outrageous cartoons—that you've come to lust for. Join the celebration!
