LAURA

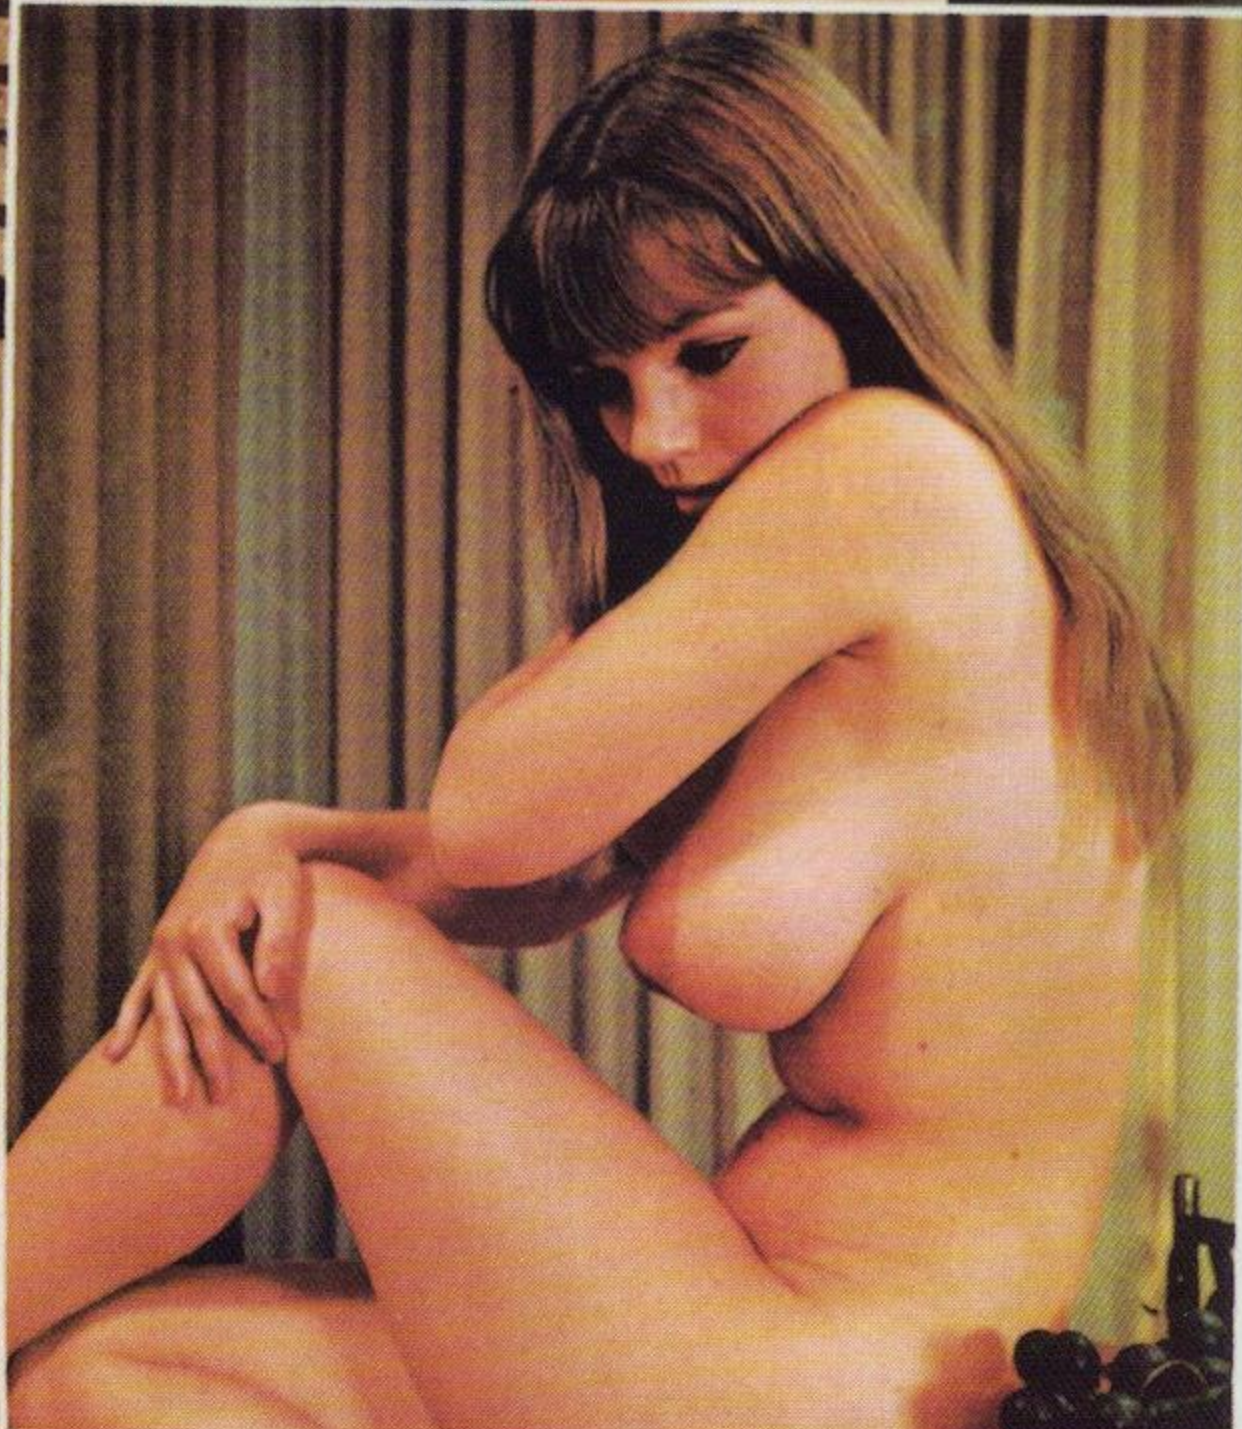

LYDIA

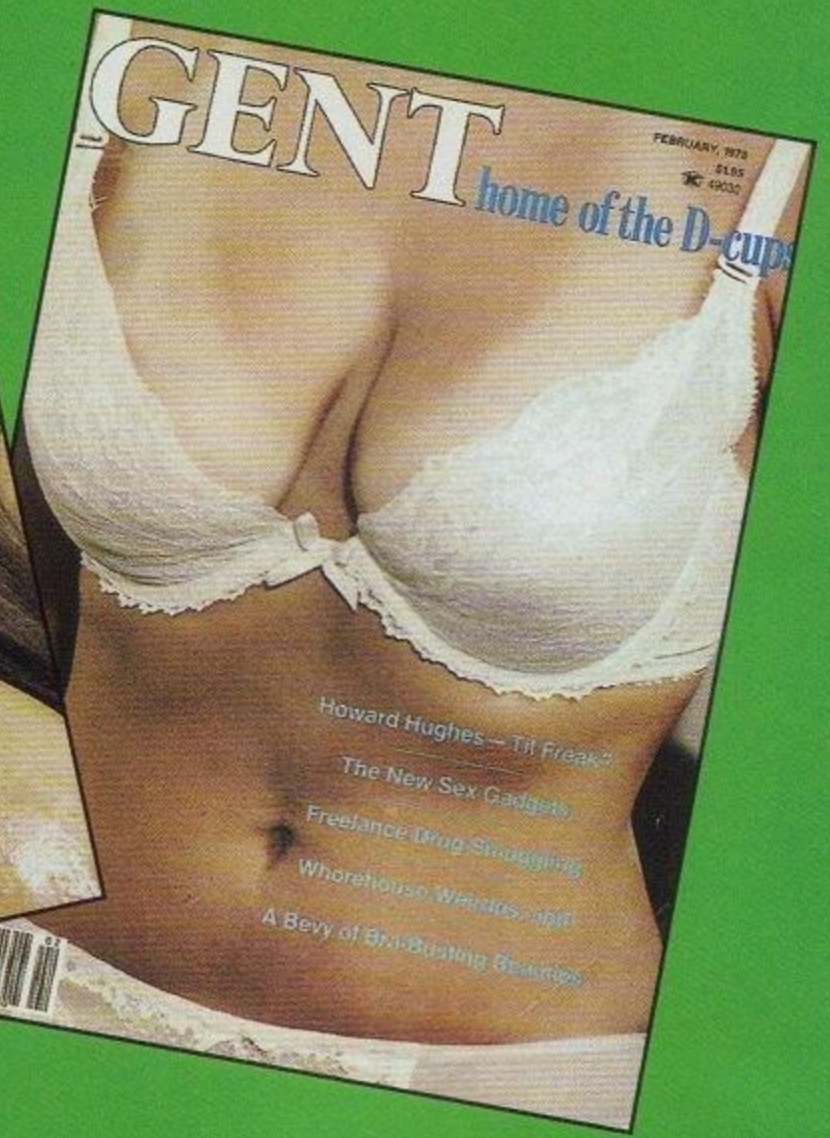

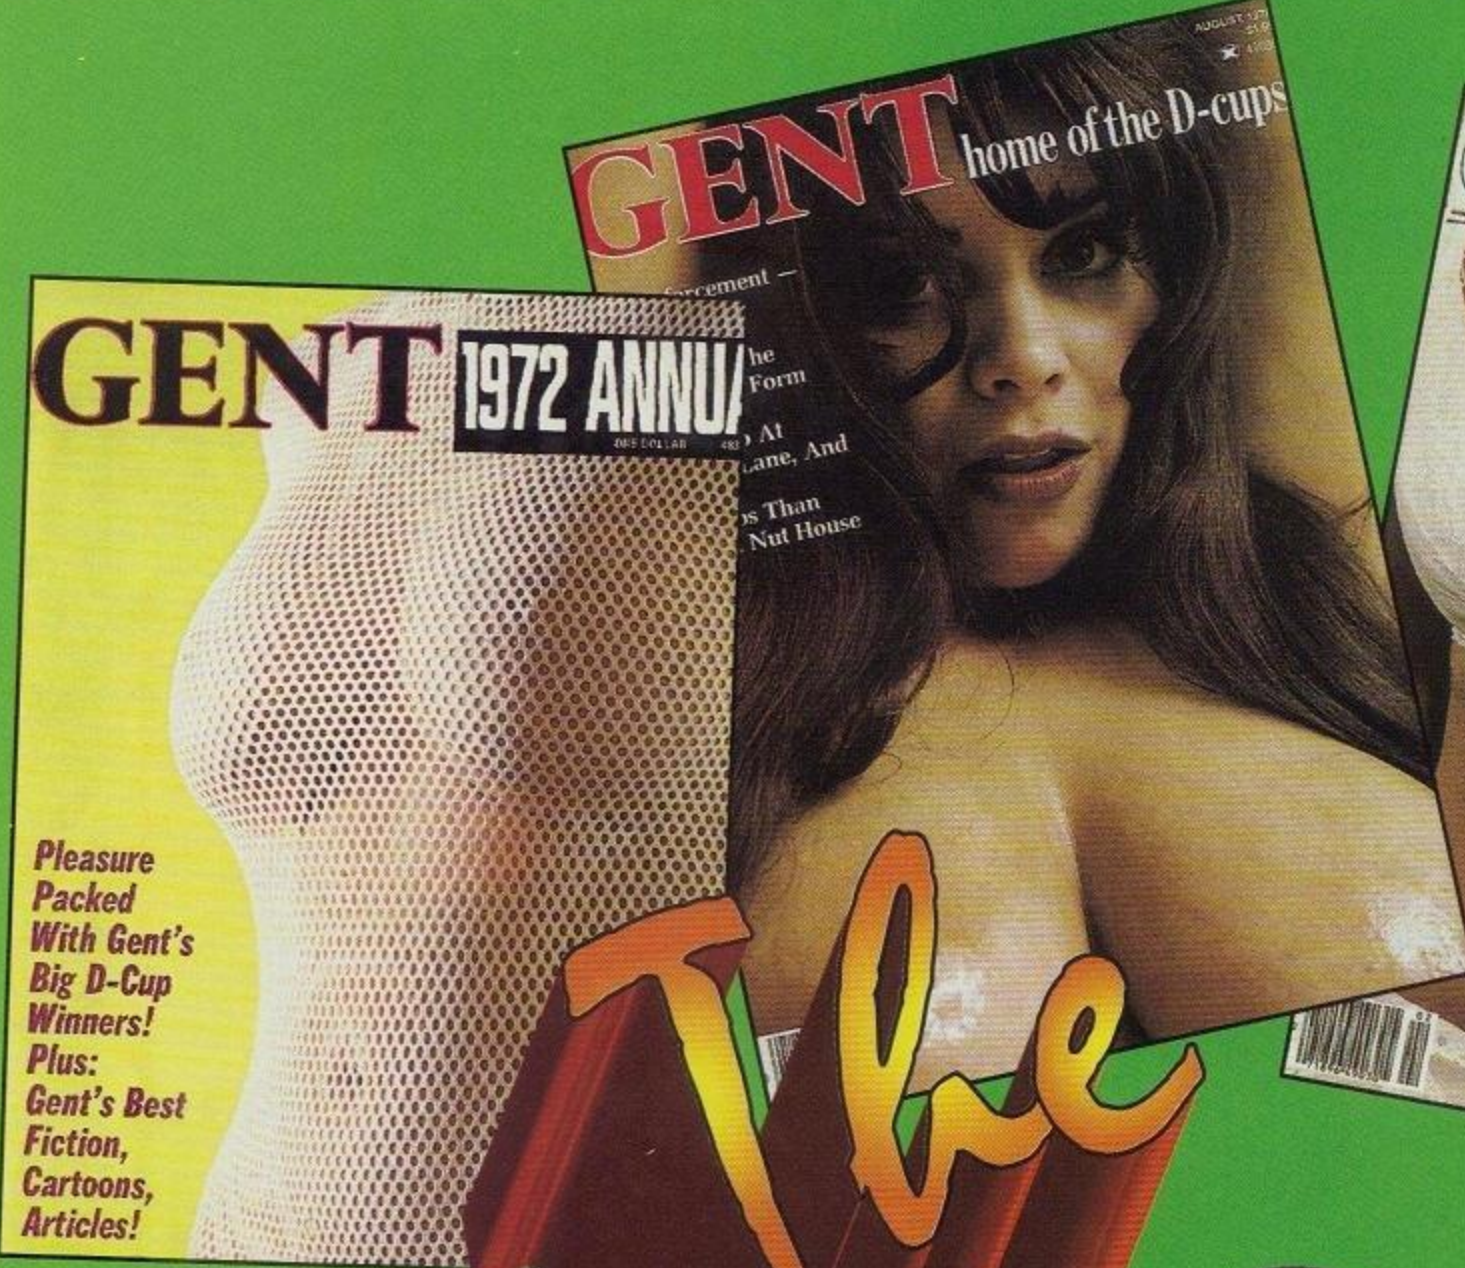

When London-born Lydia Masserati stepped off the plane onto U.S. soil for the first time, it wasn't—you can be sure—her BOAC flight bag that the customs man noticed first. It was, sadly, what he had to check out. "Full of the usual last-minute things one packs—plus my make-up," Lydia reported. "Maybe a paperback or two, although I don't read much. Honest." Later in Gent's interview with this member of our D-Cup Club, we discovered why she doesn't read much: not enough time. And why not enough time? The answer, men, will make you even sadder than the customs inspector. It seems Lydia will only date airline pilots, and New York has more than its share. But here are two pages of what you're missing.

The 70s

When Jane Ryan was nineteen and just out of high school, she left her native Weehauken to seek her fortune in Washington, the nation's capital. For two years, she was a secretary in the office of a high government official, but then she decided that New York was really where the action was, and headed that way. Now she's a model, and a very successful one at that.

LISA

In Darlene's first two layouts—Dec. '89 and June '90—she was our centerfold both times. As you can see, her 45-30-38 body and pillable flesh pillows are still centerfold material but rather than hog the spotlight, Darlene insisted we give a newcomer the chance to shine. But Darlene is one of the stars of the Video Library's featured pick this month. See page 96 for all the details.
